U.S. warplanes coming home . . . as combs!

Hanoi today: first glance proves highly deceptive

EDITOR'S NOTE: AP Special Correspondent Peter Arnett visited Hanoi in 1972, during the Vietnam War. He has returned with the special U.S. mission seeking information about American military personnel still missing in Indochina. This is a report on the Communist capital in peacetime.

HANOI, Vietnam (AP) — At first glance it looks like the war is still on.

Russian-built military trucks clog Hanoi's narrow streets. Green uniforms and pith helmets dominate the fashion scene on the crowded sidewalks.

Then you see that the trucks are filled with bricks, sand and other building materials, coming into the city to be used in rebuilding bombed buildings. Five years ago at the height of the war the trucks were loaded with ammunition and weapons and were heading out of town to war fronts in the South.

And on closer inspection, most of the people in military gear are not soldiers. They're workers utilizing the most available clothing.

What has not changed in Hanoi is the beehive industriousness that impressed visitors in the past. Now it is directed at rebuilding.

Highway billboards that used to display heroic pictures of peasant gunners shooting down American aircraft now extol the virtues of farming and show giant cabbages and tractors.

Newspapers that headlined accounts of victories over "the imperialist lackeys of the Americans" write of roadbuilding and food production on those southern battlefields.

You can still buy books about the spectacular victory in 1975 that collapsed the Saigon government and its army and ended the war. One such is a paperback, "Vuan Loc — Saigon," written by several veterans of the final battles.

But in half a dozen bookstores it was apparent that war books have given way to voluminous accounts of nation building and economic recovery, the two main preoccupations of the Hanoi government.

Gone along with the war books are the obvious symbols of the war days.

Workers have filled in the manholes around the lakes and along the main streets that served as instant air raid shelters for the population during the American air raids.

The only air raid shelter visible is a large bunker in a park across from the government guest house, and an official said it is slated for demolition.

Gone is the giant scoreboard two stories tall in downtown Hanoi that told the people about the war's progress with large red victory splashes painted across a map of South Vietnam.

War souvenirs are also in short supply.

Aides to the U.S. delegation seeking information about American war dead and those missing in action discovered in the bar of the Thong Nhut Hotel a showcase of local products. Among them were metal combs made from the wreckage of American warplanes, once a popular souvenir.

Col. William M. Hubbell, who used to fly against targets around Hanoi and is now deputy commander of the Joint Casualty Resolution Center in Thailand, bought one for a dollar.

"What the hell, the war's over now," he said.

"Well, I guess we are starting to take it all back home," said Roger Shields of the Defense Department as several other Americans bought the combs.

A Western resident said American toilet goods are sometimes on sale but only in small amounts.

One Vietnamese official cautioned the visitors to be careful when walking around the streets, suggesting that the public might not take kindly to them. But the people did not seem to care as groups of Americans strolled by, several of them young military men with crew cuts.

Even when some of the Americans spoke in fluent Vietnamese, the local people did not seem surprised.

"Either everyone here is supremely tolerant of us, considering what we have been doing to them over the years, or they need us badly for economic help," commented Shields.

But a Westerner living in Hanoi said appearances were somewhat deceptive.

"The people have been seared by bombing and war and they are not entirely trusting," he said. "They have not forgotten."

He said the barmaids at the Thong Nhut Hotel, where most foreigners live, practice shooting in a back alley, causing some concern to hotel guests who have to pass nearby.

When this reporter visited Hanoi in 1972 with an American antiwar group collecting three American prisoners of war, an escort was always around, and my dispatches were read carefully and analyzed by officials, who questioned some of what was written.

Five years later, officials seem unconcerned as American reporters walk about Hanoi, and they say our dispatches are being sent quickly and without censorship.

Rain soaks valley; more on way

Lightning, winds cause extensive Southland damage

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

While area residents are drying out from a welcome rainstorm which dropped .79 inch in the Progress-Bulletin gauge Thursday before moving east, they can prepare themselves for another storm which the National Weather Service said should reach here late Friday.

The latest storm brought the seasonal rainfall in Pomona to 11.10 inches, compared to 5.20 inches at this time last year.

The storm was accompanied by strong winds and thunderstorms which brought damage and injuries.

A 9-year-old Glendale boy was critically injured when he was struck by lightning Wednesday night.

Power lines and trees were downed, houses unroofed, windows smashed, and cars damaged when a sudden windstorm hit the Anaheim-Fullerton area.

A number of Orange County residents insisted they had seen tornado funnels Wednesday night, including a Buean Park woman who said she saw a funnel pick up her car and smash it to the ground.

The National Weather Service, on the other hand, said that no funnels were spotted on any of its radar screens.

Firemen at Fullerton reported seeing several cars in their city "picked up as high as 15 or 20 feet and then flung down by the wind."

A portion of the roof of the United Can Co. in Fullerton was razed, and a spokesman for the firm said that three workers received minor injuries.

Power outages were reported in Huntington Beach, Rossmoor, Seal Beach, Los Alamitos, Buena Park, and Brea.

Southern California Edison Co. officials said that more than a mile of transmission lines must be replaced before power can be restored to about 30,000 customers along a 12-mile strip hit by the violent winds.

Glendale police said that 9-year-old Louis Godinez was hit by lightning in the front yard of his home. He is listed in critical but stable condition at a local hospital.

Locally, heavy rain between 4 and 6 p.m. caused a rash of accidents in the West End of San Bernardino County, but most were minor.

Hail was so intense in the West End communities that lawns became white and children made snowballs.

Numerous power outages were reported because of the heavy rainfall, but the failures were short-lived. Areas in Etiwanda, Euclid and Grove avenues in Ontario, an area north of Foothill Boulevard in Upland and downtown Ontario were affected.

Pomona police reported 11 traffic mishaps on local streets, but none of the accidents was serious.

Mt. Wilson received five inches of snow, while Lake Arrowhead reported 4.5 inches.

San Bernardino received only .02 inches, and Thermal, Palm Springs, El Centro and points east reported none.

Bank delays speedway foreclosure

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

The Bank of America will indefinitely delay any foreclosure against the Ontario Motor Speedway until the Expo 81 Corp. comes up with an exact financial plan or it reports no viable proposal.

Edmund Hamburger, attorney and counsel for the Bank of America, reported today the bank's trustees for the Ontario Motor Speedway (OMS) bondholders have given the Expo 81 Corp. an "open-end" on securing the necessary financing for the proposed international fair.

But Hamburger said the bank has asked for staggered progress reports from Expo 81 on details of financing arrangements for the purchase of the speedway.

News media barred over PLO issue

U.N. reception for Carter tonight

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The White House has barred photographers and reporters from a United Nations reception for President Carter tonight, apparently to prevent him being caught with a representative of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

Carter is already under fire from Jewish organizations because the PLO's observer to the United Nations, Hasan Abdel Rahman, has been invited to the reception Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim is giving after a speech by the President in the General Assembly hall at U.N. headquarters.

A U.N. spokesman said the President and Waldheim would not head a receiving line to shake hands with each of the 300 guests but instead would circulate among them. The spokesman said this was being done because the reception would only last an hour, but it also would enable Carter to avoid Rahman if he wants to.

The spokesman said at the request of the White House, Waldheim had also banned all photographs of the reception as well as the closed-circuit telecast which had been promised U.N. correspondents because they were not invited.

"We have to respect the wishes of our distinguished guest," said the spokesman.

Waldheim at first invited only the chief delegates from the 147 U.N. member countries, but the U.N. observers from Switzerland and the Vatican, which are not members of the world organization, complained at being left out. So Waldheim, after consulting with the U.S. government, invited all accredited observers. This included the PLO, Vietnam and Korea.

The American Jewish Congress said it was regrettable that the President "should permit himself to be placed in the position of personally greeting" a PLO representative. The Conference of Major American Jewish Organizations telegraphed Carter that the PLO was a terrorist gang bent on destroying Israel, and "we can only feel discomfort and chagrin that our President should find himself at a social function to which this destructive and murderous force should be honored with an invitation."

Hit-run accident

Ontario woman killed

By TONY AULT
PB Staff Writer

A 23-year-old Ontario woman was killed Wednesday night when she was struck by an unknown vehicle southbound on Campus Avenue in Ontario, police reported.

Police said the victim, Sherry Lorraine Hoehn, 4781 State St., was found face down in a pool of water at the gutter of the street.

Police said attempts by Ontario Fire Department paramedics to revive the woman failed and she was pronounced dead on arrival at Ontario Community Hospital about 10:30 p.m.

Police said Francis L. Duke of 10877 Ada St., Ontario surrendered to Ontario traffic investigators today about 9:30 a.m.

He was booked for investigation of felony hit and run driving. Police said the case may be given to the district attorney's office later today where charges of manslaughter may be filed.

Police said the woman appeared to have suffered multiple head and chest injuries. Officers at the scene said it appeared the victim was either getting into or out of her car parked at the south curb south of J Street when her vehicle was struck by another car southbound on Campus Avenue.

The impact of the collision threw the woman into the gutter face down.

Traffic investigators this morning were asking anyone who may have seen the accident, or any vehicle in the area between 9:50 and 10:15 p.m. to contact the traffic services bureau at the Ontario Police Department as soon as possible. The number is 986-6711.

Police said they had no description of the hit-and-run vehicle other than some traces of brown or dark red paint on the victim's clothing.

The woman was taken to the Richardson Peterson Mortuary where funeral services are pending.

GUNMAN AND HOSTAGES LEAVE S.F. APARTMENT

Michael Guile (left) is wheeled out of an apartment in South San Francisco and sent to a hospital after shooting himself in the chest. He held a man and a woman hostage for 14 hours after robbing a pharmacy Wednesday morning. Guile died an hour after arriving at the hospital. At right, Pauline Gomez, 61, and Tony Jojola, 54, leave the apartment where they were held captive for 14 hours by Guile.

Legislature ready to grill UC regents

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The University of California regents will find themselves in an unfamiliar place this week — the legislative hot seat.

Legislators and regents, who sometimes have unkind things to say about each other from afar, will get a chance to confront one another Friday at a hearing of the Assembly Postsecondary Education Subcommittee.

The subcommittee, chaired by Assemblyman John Vasconcellos, D-San Jose, grilled UC President David Saxon recently over the university's handling of the Bakke reverse discrimination case.

In that case, certain to be a topic of discussion Friday, UC has appealed a state Supreme Court decision that the rights of a white applicant to UC Davis medical school were violated by a special admissions program for minorities.

Vasconcellos contends the university's lawyers in the case were incompetent, and he hasn't softened his criticism since former Watergate special prosecutor Archibald Cox was named to take UC's case to the U.S. Supreme Court.

UC still hasn't named any minorities or women to the legal team defending the special admissions program, Vasconcellos noted this week.

He said he wants to ask regents what the university is doing to get more minorities and women among its students and faculty, regardless of the Bakke decision, and also explore other touchy topics like a recent UC fee increase and the relative importance of teaching and research.

Saxon, in a letter to Vasconcellos, also suggested discussing "regental and legislative authority and responsibility" — a sore spot lately among some regents, who have complained the state is intruding on UC independence.

The hearing will follow a regents' meeting at which the board will name a new student member, who will be the first male and first graduate student to hold the post.

The three finalists, chosen by student presidents, are law students David Levine of Berkeley and Michael Salerno of Davis and anthropology graduate student Mark Mochary of San Diego.

The one-year term of the second student regent, Daryn Peeples, expires in July.

Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. is expected to attend Friday's session.

More on Moonie hearings

Now 'coercive persuasion' debated

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A specialist in law and psychiatry has told the judge in the "Moonie trial" that the idea of "coercive persuasion" is meaningless unless drugs, hypnosis or physical force were used.

"Advertising, public schools, church and family — all of them use inducements," Dr. Harold Kaufman of Washington testified Wednesday. "But to call them coercion is speculative. Coercion is physical coercion. To go beyond that is misuse of language."

Kaufman was called by attorneys for five young members of the Rev. Sun Myung Moon's Unification Church. Their parents are asking Superior Court Judge S. Lee Vavuris to grant them temporary conservatorships over their children so they can remove them from the church's influence.

Kaufman is expected to testify today that, based on his examination of the five church members, he thinks they are capable of acting and thinking of their own free wills.

A psychologist and psychiatrist hired by the parents both testified earlier that all five young adults exhibited symptoms similar to brainwash victims, including memory loss and a limited range of emotions.

Testimony in the week-long hearing has centered on techniques of "brainwashing" or "coercive persuasion" that Moonie leaders allegedly use to recruit new members and keep them in the church.

Attorneys for the five young church members have charged, in turn, that the parents want to turn their children over to deprogrammers who will "brainwash" them away from the church.

Wendy faces sentencing

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Wendy Yoshimura, who has renounced her association with Patricia Hearst and other fugitives as "a stupid judgment," faced a maximum 25-year prison term at her sentencing today on charges of illegally possessing weapons and explosives.

Alameda County Superior Court Judge Martin Pulich was to impose sentence on the 34year-old former underground companion of Miss Hearst and other figures connected with the terrorist Symbionese Liberation Army. She has been free on $25,000 bail.

Convicted Jan. 20 after a 13-week trial, Miss Yoshimura's original sentencing date of Feb. 24 was postponed after her lawyers requested more time to prepare their motion for a new trial.

She was found guilty in connection with weapons and explosives found in 1972 in a garage she had rented in Berkeley. The prosecution said the garage was an arsenal for terrorists and described her as committed to the violent change of society.

Border Park taking shape

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Mexicans stroll across the border freely to fish and sunbathe unrestrained as long as they're in sight. Relaxing Americans explore the Mexican side.

The serenity is marred briefly by construction work on lifeguard stations, a park building, restrooms, picnic areas and parking for 325 cars. Another six months of work.

In the extreme southwestern corner of the United States, Border Park is taking shape, a permanent tribute to goodwill and openness among peoples.

A place "of great historic, geographic, scenic and recreational interest" is opening up, says Herbert Rhodes, California's parks and recreation director.

The tiny myoporum which the wife of President Richard M. Nixon planted in 1971 is five feet tall now, a green and blossoming tree bent to the east by westerly winds.

At last, "after these years of delay, things are happening," says Floyd Lemley, who has been the chief ranger.

California is spending $730,000 to prepare the park as an international oasis between nations, and Mexico eventually plans to develop adjacent land.

The land on the U. S. side adds up to 679 acres but is fragmented. The first parcel of 372 acres dates to 1971. Later, the Navy turned over to California a 23-acre parcel a quarter-mile from the beach, and the state since has leased 284 acres of land extending northward almost to Imperial Beach.

Funds are being set aside to buy some of the land in between.

100 m.p.h. chase

VAN NUYS (AP)—A 100-plus miles per hour chase down the San Diego Freeway ended early today in a rifle-revolver-shotgun shootout that authorities said left a highway patrolman shot in the hand and the man he was chasing critically wounded.

Highway patrol officers Frank Edwards and Robert McGill said they tried to stop a car for a traffic violation.

But they said the car sped down the freeway at better than 100 miles per hour, spun out on an offramp shoulder, and the driver opened fire on the patrol car with a rifle.

The CHP officers returned the fire, Edwards using a revolver and McGill a shotgun. Edwards was hit in the hand, the car driver hit in the chest and head.

For diabetics

SAN DIEGO (AP)—German researcher Karl Dietrich Hepp says an artificial pancreas the size of a pocket watch may be ready for transplanting in diabetics within five years.

The artificial pancreas placed under the skin would be loaded with two months' supply of concentrated insulin, Hepp said Wednesday. A needle fitting into a coupling would be used to recharge the reservoir.

Hepp, an endrocrinologist at Munich's Diabetics Research Unit, delivered the E. F. F. Copp lecture earlier Wednesday in Los Angeles.

Medi-Cal program

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The California "Little Hoover Commission" says nothing has been done about year-old complaints of runaway costs and mismanagement of the $2.6-billion Medi-Cal program.

In a sometimes-heated hearing Wednesday, top officials of Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s Health Department conceded they haven't kept close enough tabs on costs and fraud. But they denied mismanagement.

Said Ray Procunier, chief deputy health director: "A lot of this concern with excess profits, fraud and all that is hearsay...it's overstated."

Procunier said some of the commission's criticism was "inflammatory" and "borders on harassment."

Prof salaries

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. is raising his salary offer to state university and college professors, but also proposing no increases at all for state employes making $50,000 or more.

Brown said Wednesday he would include a 5 per cent pay raise for the 17,000 faculty members on the 19 campuses in his $15.2 billion budget request for fiscal 1977-78. He had earlier offered only 2.2 per cent.

But the president of the United Professors of California, Art Bierman, said, "I think that half a loaf is better than a single slice. We asked 10 per cent to start catching up with our 20 per cent actual loss since 1969, including two years when we got no raises. Now we might be able to keep up with the price of coffee."

Yacht owner

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A yacht owner from Beverly Hills says he never sought special treatment to keep the vessel off Los Angeles County tax rolls.

In his testimony Wednesday before a county Board of Supervisors hearing, Arthur Kaplan acknowledged he is sole owner of the Portland, Ore.-based corporation that owns the yacht, but denied it was created to avoid pleasure boat taxes in Los Angeles.

Kaplan, a developer and campaign contributor to county Assessor Philip Watson, earlier had declined to answer questions on ownership of the vessel. Kaplan said in November he was not answering on advice of his attorney, pending an appeal to the Assessment Appeals Board over a 1976 Los Angeles County taxes on the yacht, plus assessment of back taxes for the years 1972-75. The decision on the appeal has not yet been issued.

Marriage bill

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The question whether two persons of the same sex should be permitted to marry is being tossed to the California Legislature.

Assemblyman Bruce Nestande, R-Orange, said Wednesday his bill would flatly forbid same-sex marriages by specifying that "marriage is a personal relationship arising out of a civil contract between a man and a woman."

Present law has no man-woman wording. It just says "persons."

But county clerks are withholding marriage licenses from same-sex couples. They say granting licenses might be violating legislative intent. That's why the County Clerks Association of California asked Nestande to introduce the bill.

Nestande, asked if he would object to legalized same-sex marriages, said, "I would. To me, marriage means family structure. It's the foundation of western civilization...."

Probe heightens low profile of underworld figure

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Santo Trafficante, once a Cuban racketeer and now described as a prince of the Florida underworld, has maintained so low a profile in his many years here that a federal investigator calls him "almost grandfatherly."

Trafficante, 62, lived quietly for years in a modest brick house on the fringe of downtown Tampa. But his past includes involvement in a foiled plot to kill Cuban Premier Fidel Castro, and accusations of drug smuggling. He has always refused to respond to such accusations.

He refused again Wednesday when he invoked the Fifth Amendment against self-incrimination at an appearance before the U.S. House Assassinations Committee.

"It's the style of the old dons — not flashy, not attention-getting," says a federal investigator who asked not to be identified. "It's one of the strengths of having power."

When he refused to answer the committee's questions, a source said, "You can't blame him when you remember what happened to the other two."

Trafficante is the sole survivor of a gangland trio allegedly enlisted by the CIA in 1960 in futile efforts to kill Castro.

The other two men, also described as underworld figures, were Sam Giancana and Johnny Roselli. Giancana was shot to death in a Chicago home two years ago, and Roselli's decomposed body was found floating in an oil drum last summer in the backwaters of Miami's Biscayne Bay.

Trafficante and his wife now live in Miami and maintain a beach house in Pinellas County. Investigators say he hasn't worked in two decades, since his Cuban gambling days.

He was one of five sons of Sicilian-born Santo Trafficante Sr. When he died more than 20 years ago, the senior Trafficante had never had been charged or even arrested.

Santo Trafficante Jr. has been charged only twice but never imprisoned. He and his brother, Henry, were convicted in a 1955 bribery case in Pinellas County, but the convictions were overturned.

Another time he pleaded guilty to a federal misdemeanor of resisting service on a subpoena and received a one-year probation.

In 1963, a U.S. Senate Committee on crime

SANTO TRAFFICANTE

described Trafficante's conglomerate as stretching from a hub in Tampa through west and central Florida.

In 1972, a Yale graduate student who had spent 18 months studying illicit internatonal drug trade told a Senate committee that a South Vietnamese narcotics ring had links with Corsican gangsters and with an organized crime family in Florida.

"Santo Trafficante Jr., heir to the international criminal syndicate established by Lucky Luciano and Meyer L. Lansky, traveled to Saigon and Hong Kong himself in 1968," testified the witness, Alfred McCoy.

A friend in Tampa denied Trafficante traveled to Saigon. But Trafficante himself was unavailable for comment.

Partisan reaction to Carter's remark on Palestine homeland

By The Associated Press

President Carter's endorsement of a Palestinian homeland in the Middle East drew guarded approval today from Palestinan leaders while Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin said it was a troubling concept.

Guerrilla leader Yasir Arafat said Carter's remark was "an important step and could be an optimistic approach."

"It worries me," said Rabin.

Carter told a town meeting in Clinton, Mass., Wednesday night that Palestinian objections to Israel's right to exist had to be overcome.

"Then there has to be a homeland provided for the Palestinian refugees who have suffered so many, many years," he said.

Arafat, in Cairo for a meeting of a Palestinian policy-setting organization, said Carter's comment "means he touched the core of the Middle East problem, without which there can be no peace and no settlement".

Rabin said that although he was worried, he did not object if the homeland was a "Jordanian-Palestinian state" formed from Jordanian territory and those parts of the Israeli-occupied West Bank Israel might trade for peace.

"The Palestinians already have a homeland in Jordan," said Foreign Minister Yigal Allon, a leading Israeli dove, who noted that two-thirds of Jordan's 2.6 million people were Palestinian.

Israelis fear an independent Palestinian state on the West Bank could become a base for subversion by extremists and would become hostile to Israel.

The Israeli newspaper Maariv said in an editorial that Carter was taking a position toward the Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization "that will inevitably lead to a sharp confrontation between Israel and the United States."

Mahmoud Laboudy, a spokesman for the Palestinian National Council meeting in Cairo, said the policy-setting organization "greeted any positive change in the American position" toward the Palestinians.

He said he hoped "a new American position will be translated into practical deeds" but the Carter statement alone was insufficient "because it does not define clearly and frankly what he meant by a homeland."

"Bitter drops are falling from the United States, portending a change in U.S. policy toward the PLO," Israeli Defense Minister Shimon Peres said in a speech shortly before Carter's statement.

Wasn't real town hall meet, but Clintonians didn't care

CLINTON, Mass. (AP) — President Carter attended a meeting of New England townspeople, but what he saw was not a New England town meeting.

The White House called it that, and Clinton officials went along — with a wink. The gathering at town hall Wednesday night was far from the often boisterous, sometimes boring meetings that really govern the town.

Town meetings are mini-legislatures. Any registered voter is automatically a member. They fume and fret, argue and debate, and in the process, the town's course is set for another year.

Carter went to Clinton on the first of several planned "meet-the-people" trips out of Washington. He saw a small town on its best behavior.

Banks of bright lights bathed the auditorium. Below them, women wore corsages, and men wore their Sunday suits. The audience applauded many of the questions and all of Carter's answers.

"This wasn't a town meeting. It was entirely different," said Town Clerk Earl Wilson.

About 800 Clinton residents crammed into the hall, and more than 3,000 others would have liked to have gotten in.

The stop in the capital of the Mountaineer state was part of a two-day "meet-the-people" trip that began Wednesday with a nationally televised town hall meeting in hilly Clinton, Mass., a town of 13,500.

The grinning President, sporting a green-tinted carnation in his lapel, stepped before about 800 townfolk and answered questions for 90 minutes. He seemed to wow his St. Patrick's Day eve audience in a town where Irish Catholics make up the largest ethnic group.

Carter even was applauded when he promised, in a state that long cherished strict antibirth control laws, that a welfare revision program to be unveiled Sept. 30 will "provide a permanent nationwide system of family planning" with birth control "opportunities for those who believe in them."

He answered questions on local problems, economics and world affairs.

As during the 1976 vote quest, Carter spent the night in a private home, in the three-story Victorian frame house of Irish, Catholic, Democratic beer distributor Edward Thompson and his wife, who gathered their eight children and five grandchildren for the occasion.

Carter seemed to win over his town hall audience and a police-estimated 4,000 others standing outside, with his very first words:

"A number of weeks ago I told my staff to choose an average American city for me to start with my people-to-people effort. They made a terrible mistake because this is no average city."

He drew no louder applause except when he took care to introduce his traveling companion for the day, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

Valley crime

Mom held in child scalding

Upland police Wednesday arrested Pricilla Mary Espinoza, 18, 5373 Anderson St., Chino, on suspicion of endangering the life of a child, a felony.

Miss Espinoza was booked into the West End jail where she remained this morning.

Her five-week-old son, Arthur Hernandez III, remains in serious condition in the Burn Center at the San Bernardino County General Hospital.

According to Upland police reports, Miss Espinoza took the infant to the San Antonio Community Hospital last Thursday afternoon where he was treated for first and second-degree burns from the waist down.

The mother told officers she had placed the baby in a bathtub full of water and did not know it was hot enough to burn him. But when his body turned red and started to blister she took him to the hospital.

The baby was transported from the Upland hospital to the Burn Center almost immediately.

Upland police said the incident occurred at 1525 12th Ave., Upland, home of Miss Espinoza's sister.

4 youths sought in robbery

Ontario police this morning were searching for four youths who robbed Randazzo's Union 76 Station at 2150 S. Euclid Ave., Ontario, of a small amount of cash Wednesday night.

Police said the same youths possibly robbed another service station in the area last week.

In the Wednesday night robbery, the four youths walked in to the garage area of the service station and confronted the attendant who was taking inventory of oil.

The youths, one armed with a shotgun and the other a hunting knife, demanded the attendant hand over the cash from the station's cash box, and his wallet.

Masked man robs Winchell's

An armed man wearing a black ski mask robbed the Winchell's Donut House at 773 Indian Hill Blvd. in Pomona late Wednesday night.

The victim, a 20-year-old employe, said when he returned from the back room he found the robber standing in front of the cash register holding a pistol. He demanded all the money, and got it before fleeing on foot in the direction of several apartment buildings nearby.

The robber was described as black, 5 feet 11 and thin. Besides the mask he wore bluejeans, a dirty, white T-shirt and black gloves.

Putting car away, robbed

A Pomona man was robbed of his wallet Wednesday night while putting his mother's car in the garage behind their home.

The victim, 34, said that when he went into the alley behind the home on W. Ninth Street to put away the car, he was approached by two men, one armed with a large revolver. He said the gunman demanded his watch and took his wallet when told the victim wore no watch.

The robber and his companion fled on foot after forcing the victim inside the garage and shutting the door.

Shots fired at prowler

The owner of a Montclair engineering firm fired two shots at a shotgun-carrying prowler who entered the Wilson Engine and Equipment Co. at 5390 Mission Blvd., early this morning. The building is in county area outside Montclair.

West End Sheriff's deputies said the firm's owner, Chuck Wilson, reported that a man armed with a sawed-off shotgun entered the building about 2:30 a.m.

Wilson told deputies he grabbed his revolver and surprised the prowler. The prowler turned and fled out the door as Wilson fired two shots in his direction, deputies said.

Deputies said Wilson chased the prowler to a 1964 lowered Chevrolet automobile with gray primer coat.

The prowler in the car sped away northbound on State Street.

The prowler was described as being black, 25 to 30 years old, 6 feet 2, 200 pounds with a short afro haircut. He was wearing a moustache, a blue watch cap and navy pea coat.

Boyle freed from prison, awaiting trial

PITTSBURGH (AP) — W. A. "Tony" Boyle, once the powerful head of the United Mine Workers Union, was released today from prison to await a new trial on charges of ordering the assassination of a union rival.

The ailing 75-year-old Boyle walked out of Western Penitentiary arm in arm with his daughter, Antoinette, who was to accompany him to his home in Washington, D.C. He was freed on $250,000 bond.

"I'm under instructions not to say anything ... I'm sorry, fellows, someday I'll call a news conference," Boyle said with a smile to reporters as he walked through the steel prison doors.

Boyle, wearing a tan trench coat over a suit, appeared thin and pallid. "I feel a little weak," he said.

Boyle spent almost a year in the prison serving three consecutive life terms in the deaths of UMW rebel Joseph "Jock" Yablonski, and his wife and daughter, who were shot to death while sleeping in their Clarksville, Pa., home in 1969.

Boyle, who suffers from a heart ailment, spent most of his time in prison in the four-bed hospital ward. He attempted suicide with an overdose of sleeping pills in 1973 and required a wheel chair for some of his court appearances.

U.S. mission pleased by talks with Viets

HANOI, Vietnam (AP) — Talks between a U.S. presidential commission and the Vietnamese government have been going so well that if they continue that way "we will have a constructive report to present to President Carter," the commission leader told Premier Pham Van Dong today.

The five-member American commission, led by Leonard Woodcock, met with Dong after four hours of talks with other Vietnamese officials.

The late afternoon meeting at the premier's mansion was slightly marred by the forgetfulness of the American staff aide who neglected to bring along President Carter's letter to the Vietnamese leader.

Everyone laughed it off, however, as an American official rushed in late and the letter was handed over.

As Woodcock expressed the hope that the wounds of the war could be forgotten and a new relationship forged between the two countries, Dong nodded and murmured "everything stems from that fact."

Earlier, Deputy Foreign Minister Ngo Dien said the United States was responsible for the Vietnam war and must bear some of the burden for reconstruction of the country.

Dien indicated, however, that his government might be willing to soften its demand that the United States fulfill economic aid commitments.

Boy faces trial in slaying

A 14-year-old Pomona boy faces trial in juvenile court March 25, charged with murder in the slaying of 16-year-old Gerald Gonzales Feb. 27.

The Pomonan is scheduled for trial in Pomona Juvenile Court. He has been confined to juvenile hall since his arrest shortly after the shooting, Pomona Police Detective Elias Valdez said.

The shooting was on the parking lot of the Jack In The Box Drive Thru at Holt and Garey avenues in Pomona early that morning. Gonzales died in surgery a little more than an hour later. He had a gunshot wound in his abdomen.

Leprechauns were busy at Paddy's place

TAPPAN, N.Y. (AP) — Nobody knows how it got there — leprechauns, some say — but last night in the dark of the moon a green stripe appeared down the middle of Oak Tree Road in front of Paddy Sullivan's saloon.

Paddy can't remember a St. Patrick's Day when the very same miracle did not occur.

"Last year they had a terrible time, those leprechauns," he said. "The names of some of them were Hennessey, Carroll, O'Rourke, Healy and, yes, Sullivan. Last year they were out there with snow shovels and brooms and had to paint the stripe three times."

Sullivan's Tappan Inn, Paddy's place, is the sort of institution Samuel Johnson must have had in mind when he called a tavern the worthiest font of happiness ever contrived by man.

It is a comfortable old shingled house, nearly as old as the nation, and sits beside the railroad track in an unhurried little village which is even older.

The bar is honest mahagony, tilted slightly toward the patient by the weight of many a weary elbow and washed down to the bare wood by many an overflowing cup o' kindness. An adjoining room is for eating, singing and general carrying on.

"It's a quiet place, a family place," Paddy Sullivan said. "Well, on weekends it can become a little noisy, but nothing like what happens on St. Patrick's Day. On St. Patrick's Day this is one wild place, I'll tell you.

"The boys from the Rockland County bagpipe band will be here with a mighty thirst after the parade. They always make it. Tom O'Connor will be here with his tin whistle. He always is. All the regulars will be here and hundreds more.

"It puzzles me where they come from. This is an out-of-the-way place but somehow people find it. Last year there were so many they couldn't get inside.

It could be the corned beef and cabbage done to a turn by Paddy's wife Kathleen, or Paddy's mother's Irish soda bread, or Tommy Dunn's tenor voice, or the sign on the wall that says "Cead Mile Failte" — a hundred thousand welcomes, but, yes, Sullivan's lures Celts all right, and not just on the great saint's day.

It isn't unusual for a passing freight to stop so the crew can dash in for a wee drop of the creature with Paddy.

One afternoon the train stopped for two hours, split in half so as not to block Oak Tree Road, while Paddy honored engineer Mike Connor with a retirement party.

Paddy hasn't noticed much of a change over the years in the types of drinking material that pass across his bar. There has been, he said, a drift toward vodka which is unusual for his clientele, and he has found an honorable way to accommodate it.

He mixes vodka with Irish whiskey and adds green creme de menthe.

"If you ask for a Comrade Kelly, that is what you will get," Paddy Sullivan said. "But you will not ask for very many."

'Roots' author sues for $5 million

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Alex Haley, author of the best-seller "Roots," has sued Doubleday & Co., accusing the publisher of failing to promote the book and underselling paperback rights.

Haley filed the $5 million damage suit Wednesday in Superior Court and claimed Doubleday violated its 1974 contract by not promoting the book through advertising and speaking engagements.

He said he had to promote "Roots" and negotiate the successful serialized television program based on the book.

The author also said Doubleday did not provide distributors with enough copies of the $12.50 hard-cover edition after the success of the television serial and many bookstores ran out.

Under contracts negotiated with Doubleday in 1964 and 1974, Haley receives 15 per cent royalties, or about $1.87 on each hard-cover book, and 50 per cent of the paperback license or rights plus about 35 cents on each paperback book sold.

Haley said Doubleday did not obtain an adequate contract for the paperback edition with Dell Publishing Co. because Dell is a Doubleday subsidiary.

The suit seeks $5 million punitive damages plus unspecified damages for lost potential profits and an injunction to stall publication of the paperback edition.

The book, which Haley spent 12 years researching, is the fictionalized account of his ancestors from Africa through slavery in America to post-Civil War freedom.

LINGERED OVER LUNCH — French film star Brigitte Bardot never made it to the Canadian ice pack to join anti-sealing forces Wednesday in their attempts to stop the killing of seals by seal hunters.

Effort to stop seal hunt fails; 12,000 pups killed

ST. ANTHONY, Canada (AP) — Canadian and Norwegian hunters killed 12,414 more seal pups Wednesday despite more efforts by anti-sealing forces and a threatened visit by Brigitte Bardot that didn't take place because she lingered too long over lunch.

Wednesday's take raised the number of pups killed to 24,344, by Canadian government count. The government has set a quota of 170,000 seals this year.

The French film-world's former sex queen flew to Canada by chartered jet to get some publicity for the opposition to the annual sealing. The International Fund for Animal Welfare brought her to St. Anthony, in Newfoundland 58 miles southwest of the Arctic ice pack where the seals are being killed.

A helicopter was to have taken her to the ice pack, but she had a leisurely lunch at a motel and missed the flight by five minutes. So she flew to Lourdes du Blanc Sablon, 67 miles away, and said she would return to France. But rain and fog made flights from the area today unlikely.

One of her hosts said Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau turned down a request by Miss Bardot for an interview "because he has no time." But Trudeau's office said it received no request for a meeting.

While Miss Bardot lunched, the president of the pro-hunt St. Anthony Citizens Committee gave her a badge reading SOS, or Save Our Swilers, a Newfoundland term meaning seal hunters. She put the badge on, apparently believing it referred to the seals.

Another protest group, the Greenpeace Foundation, said it sent a group onto the ice pack, and one of the sealing ships tried to run down the protesters.

Police in the area have been reinforced in an effort to keep peace between the sealers and the protesters.

The seal hunters had to walk through deep snow on the ice floes to reach the seal pups, which they bludgeon to death with clubs. They maintain it is a more humane method than those used in slaughterhouses.

The anti-force hunts charge that the seal herds are being wiped out and the killing of the pups is cruel. The Canadian government says the herds now total between one million and 1.5 million seals and will increase in number under the quota system.

The government maintains that without the annual hunt, the herds would grow out of control and would deplete East Coast fish stocks.

The government says the hunt is also vital to the economy of Newfoundland, where unemployment often exceeds 20 per cent, and the $2,300 a sealer can make in a month is a major part of his annual income.

Drive on to bypass ban on saccharin

WASHINGTON (AP) — Protests by Americans on sugarfree diets are spurring a drive to alter or bypass a law requiring a ban of the artificial sweetener saccharin, found to cause cancer in some laboratory animals.

The protests have prompte a flurry of resolutions and bills and raised fears by some that Congress could mage the nation's only early warning system on chemically-caused cancer if it reacts too quickly to the angry dieters.

Senators and House members report receiving thousands of letters and phone calls after a decision last week by the Food and Drug Administration to ban saccharin, the only government-approved artificial sweetener left on the market.

The FDA invoked a 19-yearold law, the Delaney Clause, to order the ban after studying the results of a Canadian government test finding that a significant number of rats fed large amounts of saccharin developed malignant bladder tumors.

The clause states that "no additive shall be deemed safe if it is found to induce cancer when ingested by man or animal."

Dr Herbert L. Ley Jr., a former FDA commissioner, predicted Wednesday that Congress will enact legislation shortly to give the FDA new flexibility and permit it to select the least dangerous artificial sweetener for public consumption.

Meanwhile, Dr. Sidney Wolfe, head of Ralph Nader's Health Research Group, said the FDA omitted from its report other "convincing" evidence that saccharin causes cancer.

Senior volunteer drive begins

The Senior Companion Program, a pilot 18-month project utilizing senior citizens as volunteers in the care of developmentally disabled clients in the West End of San Bernardino County, has opened a drive for limited-income volunteers above the age of 60.

In exchange for the care and companionship they offer their clients, the 10 volunteers will each receive a $1.60 an hour salary, transportation and one meal a day, said program director Barbara Brown of San Bernardino.

Working on a one-to-one basis, the senior companions will assist persons developmentally disabled by mental retardation, cerebral palsy and epilepsy. Each senior companion will serve 20 hours a week, offering reading, letter writing and shopping assistance, she said. The new program will provide socially isolated clients with vital outside contact. "The senior companion volunteers themselves profit not only from the supplementary earnings they receive but also from the satisfaction of helping others and being an active part of community life," she added.

Applications and information are available at the City of Ontario Human Resources Agency, 217 S. Lemon St., or by calling 986-1151, ext. 242 in Ontario. A two-week training period matching the new volunteers and their clients is scheduled to begin April 11.

The program will be supported entirely by state and local funds. Although administered by the ACTION volunteer service agency, it receives no federal funds. Program activities which now cover the cities of San Bernardino and Riverside are financed through a $200,000 grant from the California Department of Health. Volunteer expenses which include transportation, meals and training are provided by Ontario and other host communities.

The new program is working with the City of Ontario, Chaffey College and local organizations.

Supervisors endorse bill on fines

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

State legislation that would levy fines of up to $50,000 on major air polluters has been endorsed by the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors.

The bill, written by Assemblyman Alan Sieroty of Santa Monica, is now before the legislature.

If passed, it would raise the maximum fine for minor violations from the present $500 to $2,500 for the first time and up to $5,000 on subsequent occasions.

Fines for gross, intentional violations would go from the current $500 to $25,000 the first time and $50,000 after that.

The proposal would designate city attorneys to bring lawsuits into local courts. But Ed Edelman, chairman of the Board of Supervisors, said that part of the law would "create confusion."

He suggested that local city attorneys be authorized to bring lawsuits only at the request of air pollution boards. Otherwise smog cases would be handled by the districts.

Edelman lauded the state bill, contending that it finally set up "realistic penalties commensurate with the violations."

"I have long believed that a $500 fine is not an effective deterrent against air pollution violations by large firms," he delcared.

The supervisor made it obvious that he was referring, among others, to Kaiser Steel Co., in Fontana which last fall was found to be in violation of more than 1,000 air pollution regulations.

Air pollution control in the Southland is now supervised by the reorganized South Coast Air Pollution Quality Management District with headquarters in El Monte. The district includes most of Los Angeles County as well as Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties.

State funds for parks requested

The state has been asked for $462,750 to finance the development of the proposed 51-acre Sycamore Canyon Park in San Dimas, Los Angeles County Supervisor Peter F. Schabarum disclosed.

The money represents about 75 per cent of the development costs. According to Schabarum, the rest will come from federal sources.

The park is one of three expected to receive state aid under the Open Space Recreation Program which was recently signed into law by Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr.

The county Parks and Recreation Department is also asking for $225,000 for further development of an 11-acre park in Hacienda Heights, and for $18,600 to build a riding and hiking trail between Bonelli Park in San Dimas and the Marshall Canyon Park in La Verne.

Claremont district seeking new communications system

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

With disaster preparedness in mind, the Claremont Unified School District has called for bids for the first of three increments of an FM communications system which will cost nearly $19,000.

The first increment of a base station at the district Education Center, a unit at the district maintenance office, and units at five schools located strategically throughout the district will cost about $8,200, according to Business Manager Charles Abbott.

Abbott said that it is recognized that an area of significant weakness if a disaster eliminated the telephone and/or electricity would be the district's inability to communicate with the schools and the city's Emergency Operating Center at the police station.

Abbott stressed that the citizens band radio network which the staff began to develop last year has been rendered useless because the FCC expanded amateur usage into the higher bands Jan. 1.

"The bands we are using have a considerable amount of chatter," Abbott said, "and in the event of a disaster we could not count on courtesy alone to communicate with schools that might have serious needs."

Because of the cost involved, Abbott divided the FM system into three increments.

He described the system as the "ultimate in communications," which would not only provide for almost any magnitude of disaster but could also be functional for day-to-day use, especially in the maintenance department.

Shooting investigation closed

The Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department has closed its independent investigation of the shooting incident in Pomona March 2 in which police fatally wounded a young man accused of having shot two men earlier that morning.

In winding up the investigation, sheriff's homicide detectives reportedly said that they could find no reason to pursue the case any further, or to seek a coroner's inquest into the death of 20-year-old Richard Douglas Dukes.

(After Dukes' death March 3, Pomona Police Chief Richard A. Slaght requested the outside investigation as a matter of routine.)

The action apparently closes the case in which Dukes, of 2961 N. Garey Ave., was shot after he allegedly had slightly wounded a motorist on Garey Avenue near Grove Avenue and then critically wounded Garland Smith, 44, in Smith's own backyard. Police said Smith did not know Dukes and they reported finding no reason for the two apparently random shootings in the northwest Pomona neighborhood.

Police said Dukes was shot by officers who found him bending over the already wounded Smith, holding a pistol to Smith's head. They said they fired when Dukes turned the pistol toward them after they ordered him to "freeze."

Y-pals needed

For the past six years, the Claremont YMCA has sponsored a fatherless boys program called Y-Pals, which uses volunteers who are mature high school and college-aged males 16 years and older.

According to Y executive director Joe Zakem, the volunteers serve as big brothers to the boys who do not have a father living in the home for various reasons.

Anyone interested in serving as a big brother may phone 621-4010 or visit the Y at 120 W. San Jose Ave., Claremont.

"It only requires a few hours a week and yet does so much good for those boys," Zakem said.

Kiss turns computer on

WASHINGTON (AP) — A kiss is one of the latest methods developed for turning on a computer. A Japanese company has produced a computer that only registers lip prints, reports National Geographic. The computer won't work until the operator presses his lips against it and only if the kiss stirs something in its memory bank.

Most computers are more easily turned on, and the electronic marvels have aided and abetted fraud, theft, embezzlement and military and industrial espionage, Geographic notes.

Ontario bingo ordinance defeated by council, 3-2

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

Religion and morality arguments have defeated the adoption of a bingo ordinance in Ontario.

The City Council voted 3-2 against the second reading and adoption of an ordinance permitting bingo in the West End city after religious enthusiasts and ministers paraded before them in protest.

Councilmen Beecher Medlin and Robert Abel teamed up with Councilmember Faye Dastrup who declared "gambling is gambling no matter what you call it" to defeat the official adoption of the ordinance which would have allowed nonprofit organizations to use bingo as a fundraising activity.

Gil Bracken, president of the Parish Council at St. George's Catholic Church, Patrick Davis and Tom Gray were the only ones to speak favorably about bingo.

Bracken detailed some of the uses of the profits from the bingo games, including the hiring of a full-time youth coordinator for church youth activities.

Ethel Henning, a Pomona resident and president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, led the procession of protestors.

She declared "Any knowledgeable person knows when bingo comes along more crime comes to town. There is enough crime here already." She added that bingo "increases the abuse of small children" because parents spend their dollars on the games rather than feeding and caring for their children. She called bingo "addictive."

Mrs. Helen Powers, a member of St. George's, said "I'm totally against the church playing bingo. To me it is gambling."

In response to the numerous objections, Bracken said "I realize this is a very emotional type issue. There are many pros and cons. There is a possibility of abuse. There is in everything. We have the approval of the church bishop. We have the will of the people of California by the adoption of the state law. We have the police to enforce the ordinance and prevent the abuses."

The ballot issue of last November received the necessary percentage of approval allowing bingo in the state. However, it is left to local jurisdictions to decide if it should be adopted within each city.

The Ontario protestors said that didn't matter and that the bingo ballot issue was not the will of the majority because the majority hadn't voted.

Councilman Homer Briggs responded, "Perhaps there was not a majority of citizens approving (the November ballot issue), but in the process of this country the majority vote will speak the will of those who have not voted. You lose the right if it's not exercised."

Briggs said if the matter went to a referendum of the people, it would probably pass.

Claremont economist claims

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

President Jimmy Carter's $50 rebate to millions of Americans during the next couple of months is just a publicity gimmick, according to a leading economist.

"Furthermore, the money will have to be paid back, with interest, by the taxpayers," John Rutledge, associate director of the Applied Financial Economics Center at Claremont Men's College, told a bank management workshop Wednesday.

The $50 which is promised to people on Social Security, welfare and those with incomes under $30,000 must be financed by the selling of Treasury Bonds, Rutledge said.

"These bonds, of course, have to be redeemed and the interest paid on them," he added.

Rutledge said Carter's idea in the program was to boost the economy, but that did not seem to be forthcoming either.

"The general public, at one time, would have started on a buying binge in anticipation of the 'windfall,' but now they are more wary," Rutledge added. "The money will have a very short-term effect, if any."

James Meigs, director of the economics center, told bankers who gathered from throughout the state that the "honeymoon" period right after Carter's election seemed over.

"At first the bond prices rose and interest rates dropped, but now the market is reacting differently," he said.

Meigs blamed the spectacular housing boom in California on a search for assets which will increase in value as the inflation rises.

"The public is investing in land and housing as a hedge against ever-increasing inflation which cuts into the buying power of their cash," said the economist.

Meigs said that land is a good investment but warned the bankers that money spent on housing reduced spending on other markets.

The bankers told of increased speculative buying of real estate. One banker said he knew of a man who has purchased 60 houses in Orange County for resale.

"This speculation by buyers who are not occupants may be creating a false picture of a housing shortage," Meigs warned. "When these units are placed on the market for resale, it could cause a drop in housing prices."

He added that this present speculation could backfire.

Meigs urged the bankers to look carefully at the maturity time of any fixed-rate mortgages. He said the inflation rate is very difficult to forecast beyond the next two or three years.

Rutledge and Meigs agree that Arthur Burns, head of the Federal Reserve Board, has tremendous prestige in the current financial picture and has much to say about Carter's economic programs.

"When Burns goes before Congress, he gets lots of attention," Meigs told the bankers. "People hesitate to put him down.

"But his term expires in February, so it's hard to predict what may happen then."

Research and predictions made by the economists at the center indicate that inflation and the gross national production will rise during the next few years.

But the increases for both inflation and the gross national product (GNP) may level off or even drop a little, charts indicate.

Meigs said people try to forecast policies of government to modify their pricing decisions and will increase future pricing as a hedge against inflation.

Pomona board considers free busing

By DAN NIEBRUGGE
PB Staff Writer

The Pomona school board has taken action to consider providing free bus transportation to and from school next year for students who reside two miles or more from their school.

At Tuesday's board meeting, Supt. Charles Carpenter presented a map of the district which specified the areas which are two miles or greater from the district's three high schools. Only two areas of the district, north Diamond Bar and a small section of land on the eastern boundary near the intersection of East End Avenue and Mission Boulevard, fell outside the two-mile limit from their respective high schools.

While few, if any, students reside in the eastern section, at least 600 Ganesha High School students reside in Diamond Bar. At present, these students must pay 25 cents both ways for a ride to and from school.

The board authorized study of the feasability of omitting the 25-cent charge for bus service for these students for next year. The board did not, as of yet, move to provide free bus transportation.

Carpenter said that at present the district pays about $48,000 a year as its share for bus transportation and the 25-cent fares bring in about $14,000, or one quarter of the total cost which is approximately $60,000 a year.

New sugar substitute being tested

By ED PRATHER
PB Staff Writer

Anyone who has ever sprinkled sugar on his breakfast slice will have difficulty believing grapefruit can become a sweetener for his coffee.

But that may one day be the case, according to Gordon Beisel, division manager for Products, Research and Development at Sunkist Growers in Ontario.

Although he said it's "misinformation" that Sunkist is developing a new type of sugarless sweetener in the wake of the Food and Drug Administration's announced ban of saccharin, Beisel said Sunkist is providing a grapefruit-based substance to at least three companies working on such a sweetener.

That substance, a crystalline powder extracted from the peel of the grapefruit, is called Naringin.

Beisel said the research and development of a sugarless sweetener using Naringin has reached the testing stage, but that it may be another year before the government has fully reviewed the test results on dogs.

For competitive reasons, he said, the companies are remaining silent on what successes or problems they are encountering in the development.

Ironically, Naringin is bitter, not sweet, Beisel explained.

Neither is it a new substance.

Its most common previous use, said Beisel, was as a quinine substitute in the popular cocktail mix of gin and tonic.

Search for court improvements begins

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

An intensive search for ways to improve the state's courts began today under the direction of a former Pomona judge.

A 23-judge task force from Superior Court, headed by Arthur L. Alarcon, who now lives in Los Angeles, was named by Presiding Judge William P. Hogoboom.

Hogoboom said the committee will look for improvements that require neither major legislation nor heavy increases in costs.

Recommendations which will require some new laws will be presented to the state Legislature before June 30, he added.

Hogoboom said the judges tried to better the court system five years ago, but only one of the 39 suggestions were enacted into law. He said this time the judges will be more militant.

"We have learned that recommendations for reforms are empty gestures unless we, as judges, are prepared to fight for them on behalf of the public," he declared. "The people cannot afford further delay."

Hogoboom said that unless the legal system is revamped this year there may be "a complete breakdown in our civil courts."

He said the increased caseloads, particularly on the civil side, have caused a "crisis in the ability of the courts to handle the people's business on a current basis. Projections indicate that the civil calendars will be severely curtailed or terminated by the end of 1978."

Hogoboom did not go into details as to the type of reforms the judges will consider. He would only say that much of the reform suggested will center around local court procedures and on streamlining court rules and practices.

He said the judges' efforts will continue "for several years until the necessary improvements are achieved. This committee will be a permanent advocate in Sacramento to insure that the people will have their day in court."

The 23-jurist panel will include two other former Pomona judges: James Kolts and August J. Goebel.

Congressmen may be filling out own tax returns?

By PHYLLIS CANNON
Asst. City Editor

It's about time!

If Rep. Del Clawson, R-Whittier, wins this one, members of Congress will be preparing their own tax returns until they simplify the tax forms.

Clawson this week introduced a resolution which requires U. S. senators and representatives to prepare their returns, without assistance "until Congress exercises its responsibility to lift the burden on the rest of the nation's taxpayers."

Clawson said Congress is responsible for the complex, abstruse, productivity-limiting tax code.

Paraphrasing Capt. Oliver Perry on his 1812 victory, Clawson told his colleagues, "We have met the enemy and they are us."

Then he added, "If we have to reach the present maddening level of mystifying tax codification in order to be prodded into change, then there may be some promise of eventual victory."

West End sheriff's substation adds 10 new deputies, 2 clerks

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

Christmas came to the West End sheriff's substation a bit early this year in the form of 10 new deputies.

San Bernardino County supervisors this week granted a request from Sheriff Frank Bland for 10 new deputies and two clerks for the Ontario substation.

Of course, it won't be much of a Christmas present for the taxpayers, since the cost of the new personnel is estimated at $252,000 per year.

But Jay Hughes, sheriff's executive officer, was all smiles after the request was granted. "We really need the deputies, with the population explosion in the West End."

Bland's request came right after the supervisors' consideration of a building moratorium in Alta Loma, Cucamonga and Etiwanda areas. Homes are going up in that area faster than the county can provide necessary public services.

So the timing of the sheriff's plea was right on the mark.

He insisted the board didn't have time to think about the request because the next three-month academy classes for training deputies start April 4.

If the deputies were not hired until after budget hearings this summer, they could not enter the academy until Oct. 1 and wouldn't be ready for duty until January, 1978. If they are hired immediately, they'd be available for duty on July 1.

Supervisors didn't wait for the Law and Justice Agency to analyze the cost and need for the deputies. They gave Bland the authority to hire them.

Chino man hurt in accident

A 19-year-old Chino man was injured Wednesday afternoon when his car suddenly pulled to the left and crashed into the guard rail on Philadelphia Avenue near East End Avenue in Chino.

Andrew Lee Kochever of 11851 Carlisle St., was taken to Pomona Valley Community Hospital for treatment of injuries suffered in the accident.

He was given emergency hospital treatment and later released.

California Highway Patrol officers said it was unknown why the driver's steering wheel suddenly jerked to the left causing the car to leave the highway.

Two injured in Upland crash

Two youths were injured Wednesday night when their car, westbound on Eighth Street in Upland, left the highway and struck a utility pole.

Steven Escanuelas, 17, the driver of the vehicle, and his younger brother, Richard Escanuelas, 13, both of 8198 Arrow Highway, Cucamonga, were rushed to Kaiser Foundation Hospital, Fontana with multiple injuries suffered in the 7 p.m. accident. They were treated and released.

Police said the driver apparently attempted to apply his brakes but hit the accelator accelerator instead.

The car then left the highway and sheered the utility pole.

Chino will apply for federal funds

The City of Chino will apply for $474,000 in federal funds to continue its community development program.

Councilmen have given authorization to the application for the funds to cover the third year (1977-78) of the Community Development Block Grant Program.

Officials have noted the community indicated strong support for the projects planned under the federal program. No one spoke for or against the application during recent hearings.

The bulk of the funding, which has totaled $474,000 for each of the first two years of the program, has been directed toward Chino's barrio area. Various street and sidewalk improvements have been made, and a major project is the new Monte Vista Park at D Street and Monte Vista.

The proposal for 1977-78 will continue the park project and make other improvements in the barrio.

Sinking school for seagoers

So low in the water has this country's merchant marine fleet sunk that the future of the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy itself is in doubt. Critics say it has outlived its usefulness.

Established in 1936, just in time to graduate officers who skippered ships carrying supplies to U-boat-beleaguered Britain, the King's Point, N.Y., school is one of five federal service academies, attendance at which requires congressional appointment. (The other and better known ones are the Army at West Point, Navy at Annapolis, Air Force at Colorado Springs and Coast Guard at New London.)

King's Point offers an accredited four-year college degree, with strong emphasis on nautical science and marine engineering combined with seagoing experience. Graduates are licensed deck or engineering officers and hold U.S. Naval Reserve commissions.

At the present time, education at the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy is free, as it is at the other service academies. During the Ford administration, however, a bill was drafted calling for tuition and board to be paid by the King's Point cadet corps.

Supporters of the academy point out that the $37,000 cost for four years of education at King's Point is far below what the federal government spends to maintain cadets at the other academies and that imposing this cost on the merchant marine cadets would virtually seal the fate of King's Point.

Admittedly, there are fewer than 600 U.S. flag-carrying merchant vessels afloat today. But King's Point graduates have traditionally provided administrative personnel for the nation's ports and terminals, as well as specialists in admiralty law and marine insurance and officers for the tugs and barges plying the nation's inland waterways.

It's also argued that by 1980, retirements among the post-World War II generation of merchant marine officers will create a surge of vacancies, and that there will be fewer accidents at sea, including oil spills, if the men at the helm had a thorough four-year training instead of one-year cram courses available through other training courses.

Computer aids vehicle safety

Since 1970, about 12 million cars and trucks have been involved in safety defect recall campaigns. Even though the cost of correcting defects is borne by the manufacturer, in a third of these cases — or about four million vehicles — the owners have never bothered to bring them in for inspection.

Fortunately, this does not necessarily mean that there are that many unsafe vehicles on the road. General Motors, for example, recalled 1.2 million cars and trucks in 1974 and found only 1,200, or one-tenth of one per cent, actually needed correction.

By way of making the recall net tighter, however, GM has just introduced a Computerized Recall Identification System (CRIS) to provide instant information to its dealers as to whether recall work has been performed on vehicles in their inventories, plus those that come in for service.

A dealer simply enters certain segments of a vehicle's identification number by touch-tone telephone or teletypewriter and the central computer replies with the recall status of that vehicle. The system will be updated monthly with current safety information.

Although CRIS only contains data on GM vehicles and the program relies on the initiative of the dealer, it is a welcome step toward greater highway safety. Even one defective vehicle that has escaped a recall campaign is too many, and the other automakers would do well to copy GM's idea.

Think on these things

One of the biggest tests of sanity is the cramming of people into small spaces and expecting them to produce intelligent opinions. Even animals have territories that are not to be violated without some growling, snarling and nipping — not so different from human beings.

It is a fortunate dog that has a house it can go in to get away from the hassle — even to pretend it doesn't exist, or that it isn't important if it is someone's personal problem. The reasoning, thinking human being is supposed to sidestep the dogfights and do a super job, but instead he usually gets sick and his absence is a relief to him and everyone else.

Everyone needs protection from the tide of human affairs that pushes in to swallow common sense. Simple respect, compassion, inner room to breathe more freely is our hope of sanity.

Need for U.S. hold on canal

Dear Editor:

Notable politicians attempt to frighten the American people with the specter of bloody war in Panama if the United States should fail to surrender exclusive control. But the choice is not between a new Panama Treaty and a bitter confrontation.

The real choice before the United States is between unimpaired American control of the canal or a threatening takeover by the Soviet imperialists. Even that treaty for the renunciation of war promoted by Secretary of State Kellogg, known as the Briand-Kellogg Pact of Aug. 27, 1928, was careful to see that there was no snag prohibiting applications of the Monroe Doctrine. Secretary Kellogg submitted this text to the Foreign Relations Committee: "The United States regards the Monroe Doctrine as part of its national security and defense. Under the right of self-defense allowed by the treaty must necessarily be included the right to maintain the Monroe Doctrine which is part of our system of national defense."

The Senate passed that appendage to the pact by a vote of 85-1. This was before our Panama lifeline was threatened by a loud-mouthed Marxist, before Communist Cuba trotted its troops as far away as Angola, and before the same "schemers" had built up the Soviet economy and scuttled America's defenses.

It's time "We the People" educate our leaders. Let them learn that U.S. sovereignty over the Canal Zone and the Panama Canal are essential to the safety of America.

Liddy not so silent in prison

WASHINGTON — G. Gordon Liddy, the macho Watergate conspirator who once tried to impress friends by holding his hand over a burning candle, has been coming under some fire in prison as well.

The tight-lipped Liddy has remained silent to this day about his role in the ill-fated Watergate break-in. But he was quick to complain loudly about his accommodations at the Allenwood Prison Camp in Pennsylvania. Liddy moved to the minimum security prison three months ago from another penitentiary in Danbury, Conn.

The tenacious tough guy was assigned to sleep on a cot in a hallway near the television room because the better rooms were all booked up. Liddy soon squawked that he couldn't sleep because of the noise from the all-night TV room.

Almost immediately, prison officials banned TV watching after 11:30 p.m., and even started making spot checks to make sure the inmates weren't sneaking a peek at the late show. The other inmates were infuriated at what seemed to be the special treatment for their famous colleague. Many other sleepless inmates had complained about the late-night TV noise, to no avail.

The outraged prisoners retaliated by setting Liddy's mattress on fire. When he got a new one, they soaked it. The inmates also threw all the beleaguered Liddy's personal property out the door.

We learned of the brouhaha when an angry inmate bellyached to us that the prison surrenders to every demand Liddy makes. Allenwood warden Eldon Jensen confirmed that Liddy had some trouble with his fellow prisoners. He told us, however, he closed the room early due to numerous complaints, not because of Liddy's protest.

Footnote: Last month, we revealed that the Justice Department was seriously considering Liddy's petition to commute the rest of his sentence. Justice officials are studying the request and a recommendation will likely be sent to President Carter early this spring.

HEARTBROKEN HOOVER — Behind the bulldog visage of J. Edgar Hoover, who intimidated lawmakers and lawbreakers for decades, was a man acutely sensitive to any criticism of his beloved FBI.

No one defended the bureau more staunchly than Hoover when the Warren Commission complained about the FBI's handling of the investigation into President Kennedy's assassination. But long-secret documents show that Hoover was nearly heartbroken over his bureau's failings in the JFK probe and felt the commission had "debunked" the FBI forever.

Every morning, the tough-talking director carefully perused clippings from 10 daily newspapers, including The Washington Post and New York Times. But nothing pleased him more than the peppy style and sympathetic viewpoint of The New York Daily News and the now-defunct Hearst papers, The Journal-American and The Mirror.

When The Journal-American got wind of secret FBI files and reported that Hoover would tell President Johnson that Lee Harvey Oswald acted alone, the FBI chief was surprisingly calm. Had the breach of security appeared in a more liberal paper, Hoover probably would have unleashed his own plumbers to track down the leaker.

Instead, he sent a mild memo to his sidekick Clyde Tolson, commenting wryly: "I assume none of this is coming from the FBI." His aides assured him it wasn't.

Hoover did withhold some information about the killing that could have damaged the FBI's reputation, however. When the Warren Commission report criticized the FBI, Hoover sadly found that even the loyal Journal-American was giving him bad reviews. Solemnly, he underlined the harshest phrases.

In a handwritten note to closest bureau friends, Hoover conceded that the commission report was "a real debunking of the FBI which we will never live down."

Now, after 13 years, the late director's words seem prophetic. For as charges of a coverup have been leveled at the FBI, its actions in the Kennedy investigation are once again being probed by Congress.

Footnote: Hoover's successor, Clarence Kelley, is still trying to clear the air. We reported in January that the FBI withheld from the Warren Commission 23 summaries of Oswald's activities. Kelley told us that all 69 summaries were provided to the commission. Kelley also said the bureau furnished the commission with all pertinent information about potential informants, including the Cuban Sylvia Odio and right-wing activist Joseph Milteer. All allegations about them were investigated and turned over to the commission, Kelley said.

DRUG COURSE — The drug industry's message is now being peddled to congressmen, doctors and officials across the country under the guise of academic respectability.

They recently received an impressive-looking report from the Center for the Study of Drug Development at the University of Rochester. The study, warning that federal regulations are preventing important new drugs from being marketed, is written by G. Frederick Roll.

The study doesn't mention that until last year, Roll was vice president of Smith, Kline and French, a major drug company. Nor does it point out that the center gets half its money from the drug industry, including a $10,000 grant from Smith, Kline and French.

The National Science Foundation has given the center a $165,000 grant to study drug regulation, and the Federal Trade Commission has offered a similar contract. But the center's top associates, William Wardell and Louis Lasagna, have spent years testing drugs for companies such as Merck, Lederle and Bristol Labs. Asked what other drug companies finance his center, Wardell said: "We don't have to tell you and we're not going to."

Death penalty a 2-way street

Kentucky has a new death penalty law.

For specific crimes the criminal pays with his life.

Many of that state's legislators say they were convinced by an impassioned speech by one of their own — Larry Hopkins.

I will seek to reconstruct what he said.

In the United States we have a murder every 27 minutes, a forcible rape every 10 minutes, a robbery every 82 seconds, an aggravated assault every 76 seconds and an automobile stolen every 30 seconds.

And those are just the reported crimes!

So it is now the honest people who are locked up in their homes or places of business — while the pursuit of happiness in the streets has become an exclusive right of the criminal.

And the most damnable part of this situation is that a society which ought to be blaming the criminals is instead blaming itself.

I don't buy the theory that the underprivileged have a right to steal and kill and a big majority of the underprivileged don't buy it, either.

Some of our state representatives have been visiting prisons to study what we are doing to criminals; should they not also visit the hospitals and convalescent homes and cemeteries to see what criminals have done to us?

In no other nation are the rights of wrongdoers, however vicious, so zealously protected — while the rights of the victim are so callously trampled.

Every wanted poster in the Post Office includes a long string of "previous offenses;" crime is a career in which the odds are one in 100 that the criminal will get caught and 500 to one he'll go unpunished.

Does the death penalty deter crime? The evidence says it does. Not one of the 162 killers executed in Kentucky has killed anyone since.

More evidence: In Manitoba, Canada, a bank bandit killed a teller during a robbery on a Tuesday. The bandit was captured immediately, tried on Thursday, sentenced on Friday — and executed the following Tuesday.

They never had another bank robbery for 20 years in the entire province of Manitoba.

The death penalty is not something we are deciding; it has been decided. Not in any state in the United States has the death penalty been abolished. It has not been abolished for nice old ladies walking home from church or from the grocery store. It has not been abolished for grocers, druggists, bus drivers and little boys and girls.

It has been abolished only for killers and kidnapers. It is time to even things out.

And Kentucky, in response to that plea, evened things out.

Doc Peirsol

Just in jest

A university professor has just completed a study which indicates that average Americans spend 50 per cent of their time watching television and devote only one per cent to bodily exercise. And the strange thing is that despite their sedentary habits, most of them manage to stay in fairly good physical condition. — Well, maybe not so strange when one stops to consider that in America, thanks to this country's advanced medical science, it is now possible to sit for hours munching snacks in front of a television set and keep one's figure too.

One popular method for remaining slim and trim is a new easy-way system to glowing health known as "Hand Massage Reflexes." By gently rubbing certain key points on the hand, nerve reflexes can be sent to all parts of the body, and these messages, according to the "Hand Massage Reflexes" advertisement, will cure anything from excess weight to falling hair, hemorrhoids and enlarged prostate glands.

However, if massaging one's hand seems a bit too strenuous, there's another weight reducing plan now on the market that claims it is possible to shed unwanted pounds simply by listening to music. — Special music, of course, which contains subliminal messages that help the listener to forget to eat. — So go ahead! Join that large group of happy Americans who spend 50 per cent of their time watching television. Then later, when the fat appears, quickly cure it with your hands and ears.

Solon seeks UC audit

By EARL G. WATERS

Revelations of the loose management of federal allocations by the University of California have precipitated a demand for a full scale audit of UC's regent-controlled endowment funds which total near a billion dollars. Sen. John Stull disclosed that he will ask the Joint Legislative Audit Committee to launch a sweeping examination of the huge sums held in trust by the university "especially with a view to determining whether they are in all instances being used in accordance with the terms of the endowments."

Stull, who as a Navy commander trained his guns on the enemy, has fired off several barrages at UC in the past in efforts to compel adherence to established public policy in the conduct of state business. His most successful foray came last November when the voters overwhelmingly adopted his proposal, backed by Speaker Leo McCarthy, to require UC to conform to state bidding procedures in real estate transactions, purchasing and contracting. It was bitterly opposed by UC President David Saxon and the regents as "unnecessary."

"The subsequent disclosures that the university has mishandled millions of dollars of federal grants prove just how necessary it is that it abide by the same well considered rules of management which apply to all other state agencies," Stull said. "And despite its claims of following accepted bidding procedures in purchasing, some of the federal findings of improper use of funds involved purchasing."

The senator, who now chairs the Senate finance subcommittee which will review UC's budget requests, says that even more importantly, the findings clearly establish the need for a close look at its other financial operations. He contended that if UC can err in the handling of federal funds knowing it will be audited by the government, it gives rise to questions as to what is happening with the millions in endowment funds which have gone unaudited by the legislature.

"Because they have been found lax in the handling of federal money and because the state constitution specifically charges the legislature to impose such 'control as may be necessary to insure compliance with the terms of the endowments . . . and the security of its funds', I am asking the Audit Committee to undertake a complete examination of these funds to carry out our responsibility." Stull said he would author a resolution for that purpose if necessary.

Asked if he knew of any use of endowment funds not in accordance with the terms of the endowments, Stull said that was something to be determined by an audit.

"I understand that when the legislature expressed disapproval of UC providing free residences for the president and each of the chancellors on the nine campuses and deleted funds for that purpose from the budget, the practice has been continued using endowment funds," he stated. "I don't know whether that violates the terms of the endowment but I can't see where it serves an educational purpose. It would seem that when they are appearing before the legislature each year complaining about the lack of money to provide educational programs they should be running a tighter ship and eliminating such frills in their spending."

He said he didn't know how much was being spent for the mansions. "It must be close to a half million. It was something around $300,000 four years ago and that didn't include all of the costs nor did it take into consideration the loss of income from the capital investments represented by the homes, some of which are valued at more than one million dollars."

Clean hands can be dirty

Dear Ann Landers: May I say a word to that woman who is ashamed of her mechanic husband's hands because they never look quite clean?

Bite your tongue, dear. I was married for 29 years to an attorney whose income in 1973 was $240,000. He defended corporate crooks, got them off, owned pieces of border-line businesses in exchange for his "services," and arranged for bribes and payoffs. "Mr. Fixer" dressed like a million dollars and his hands were immaculate.

Without meeting your husband I know his hands were a lot cleaner than my former husband's. He did an honest day's work with those hands. You should adore them! — No Name, City, State or Country

Dear Anonymous: Thanks for a lesson in ethics, morality, philosophy and sociology. For more on the same subject, read on.

Dear Ann: May I comment on the letter from the woman who is embarrassed by her garage-mechanic husband's grime-stained hands?

There were times when I was ashamed of my husband's hands, too, but as I grew older I developed a different outlook. Now I realize the cars we drive, our lovely home and nice clothes were made possible by those wonderful hands.

I never have to call a plumber, electrician or carpenter because my husband's hands can do almost anything. I consider myself — Lucky In Minnesota

Dear Lucky: What an uplifting letter! I should tell you that dozens of women wrote to suggest at least 10 different products guaranteed to remove all grime and grease. Anyone who is interested can check with his druggist.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is 60 and has been a beer drunk for years. I stayed with him, using the excuse, "It would be better for the children." Well, the children are grown now and they are being treated for spastic colon, colitis and migraine.

My husband's regular routine is four cans before dinner and eight cans after dinner, before the 11 o'clock news. If he stays up later he drinks more.

He has damaged his liver, bladder and kidneys, has high blood pressure and is 50 pounds overweight. I've been humiliated dozens of times because of his drunken behavior. He refuses to go to AA and counseling is out. He won't listen to his doctor — claims beer is not hard liquor and nobody is going to deprive him of his pleasure.

I am 50 years old and still attractive. Now that our children are grown should I stay with this man and watch him kill himself, or escape and try to make a new life? — Soft In The Head In Ohio

Dear Ohio: Have you tried Al-Anon? This is a splendid organization for people who live with alcoholics. If not, you should. Look in the phone book and find out when and where the next meeting will take place. You'll get your answer there. Sometimes the only solution to a problem like yours is to walk out.

No demand for cacographists

"How much money do those people get for addressing envelopes in their homes?" So inquires a client. Depends. Decent handwriting, 10 cents an envelope. Fancy scripting called calligraphy, as much as $3 per envelope. That's the report of the direct-mail experts. Don't know who's hiring, though. The demand for calligraphists isn't that great. The opposite of calligraphy, incidentally, is cacography, bad handwriting. The demand for cacographists isn't that great, either.

BED ATTIRE

Q. "What percentage of the wives in this country wear nightgowns to bed each night?"

A. Our Love and War man's figures on this matter no doubt are outdated. They are weeks old, and you know how things change. But at last report, 71 per cent wore nightgowns, 24 per cent wore pajamas, and 5 per cent wore nothing at all.

Q. "What's a 'slipper bath'?"

A. That antique was a French-designed bathtub in the shape of a high-heeled shoe. Had a spigot in the toe to drain it and a place in the heal to heat the water. Old Ben Franklin brought one home from France and is said to have whiled away many an hour reading in the thing.

Q. "Why was 'Britain' called 'Great Britain'?"

A. To distinguish it from France's smaller Brittany.

Hanging houses for the birds

Since some species are surveying your area for nesting site, it's high time to hang houses — for the birds — if you haven't already. Birdhouses which have had time to blend into the landscape a bit are more likely to be accepted.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Why, when my cat's been vaccinated for everything in the book, did she still come down with some kind of a cat flu thing? — B.E.

DEAR B.E. First, vaccines aren't available for "EVERYTHING in the book" — yet. Second, the vaccines which are available are not 100 per cent effective in preventing these respiratory viruses. Some animals, for varying reasons, receive little or no protection from these vaccines. Since cats have so many viral infections, it's improbable there will ever be vaccines to cover all of them. The object, of course, is to protect against the most important ones. Researchers are still working on that.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Madame, our poodle, is starting to show a little gray around the muzzle. I know it bothers her and have heard there are some things you can add to the diet to prevent gray hair. Vitamins and that sort of thing. Please let me know quick what that might be. Right now, I'm trying to keep the gray covered up with makeup, but it doesn't work too well because Madame accidentally licks or rubs it off. — U.D.

DEAR U.D.: A vital part of the hair pigmentation process is hormonal stimulation, primarily from the pituitary gland. You're right, though, in assuming a deficiency of certain nutrients which are essential for normal pigmentation may result in graying of the hair. If any one of the following is missing from the diet it will cause, or accelerate, the graying process. 1. Protein, specifically the amino acids trysine, cystine and lysine. 2. Vitamins, including biotin, choline, folic acid, inocitol, riboflavin and PABA. 3. Minerals — copper, iron and zinc.

A caution: Before you start dumping individual nutritional ingredients into her diet, check with her doctor to be sure you're not causing a dietary imbalance in the process. Excesses of some dietary ingredients may cause deficiencies in other equally essential nutrients.

In the event careful nutritional supplementation still fails to stem the tide of gray, at least be reassured that Madame is actually the least concerned member of the family regarding this gray muzzle matter.

What if parents had to visit

Parents.

When you call your children to go visit your friends with you, do they hide under the car and refuse to come out? Do they make excuses for not going like they have to stay home and rotate the tires on their tricycle? Do they exude all the enthusiasm of a child invited to a fire drill in December in the middle of showers?

Then these words are for you. Suppose — just suppose — the situation was reversed and you were being dragged along to visit their friends. It might go something like this.

"Look, Mom, would you and Dad stop dawdling or we're going to be late at Debbie and Mike's house. And I'm telling you before we go, I don't want you whining around about when are we coming home and running in and out every two minutes to 'tell.' And for crying out loud take something to do — some of your favorite toys. Mom, why don't you take your needlepoint? That would keep you occupied for awhile. Your home workshop is out of the question, Dad. It's too big. Take something small — like maybe your keyring to play with."

At the house, the introductions are brief. "This is Mom and Dad, but you'll forget their names anyway. Say hello. And would you look at your parents. I swear they've grown a foot since we last saw them. How are things at work? And where did you get that pretty dress? I want you to meet my parents. Mom is 34 and Dad is 36. You should have a lot in common. Now run along and get acquainted. Maybe their Mom will show you her new microwave oven and their Dad his new power mower. Keep it down now."

Later, as the children are really having a good time, the four parents approach the children. "Kids, when are we going home? All the parents are sleepy. Besides, Dad has to be in court early tomorrow and he has a brief to write tonight."

The kids look at one another, "Isn't that just like a parent? Putting everything off until Sunday night. How long have you known about the brief?"

"Last Friday," says their father

"A likely story. Don't they drive you crazy? I swear you can't take parents anywhere and have a good time. What say we get together sometime soon without the A-D-U-L-T-S?"

In the car on the way home, you hear the kids say, "I love Debbie and Mike, but their parents are really spoiled brats. I hope you two didn't drink a lot of liquids or you'll be up all night. And don't you dare fall asleep on the way home or we'll leave you in the car all night. Tell me, did you have a good time?"

Calories count in diet

DEAR DR. LAMB — I've been reading your column for some time now and I also read your book, "Metabolics." It was very interesting and I sure learned a lot about losing weight. You have finally convinced me that the way to lose weight is to take in fewer calories than your body uses.

I am 20 years old, 5 feet 2, and weigh 115 pounds. I only want to lose five pounds. It is very hard for me to lose when I eat only 800 calories a day, so I cut my intake to only 500. For the last few days I have also been running a mile in the morning and the other night I played tennis for an hour. The other morning when I got on the scale after all the exercise I've been getting and the few calories I eat, I had gained a pound.

I have to watch everything I eat so I don't get back to 130 pounds like I was. My husband can eat anything and everything he wants without putting on a pound. He tells me if I would get some exercise I could do the same thing. But how much more considering your size. The hour of tennis perhaps only 350 calories, depending on how vigorous the game was. There are 3500 calories in a pound of body fat or 17,500 in the five pounds you want to lose. If you walked three miles a day, in four months time you would use the calories in five pounds of body fat.

The other problem you have is that pounds on the scale are a poor indication of body fat loss. As fat is metabolized it breaks down into carbon dioxide and water. The body may retain the water. As you retain four or five pounds of water it looks like you are not making progress. After three or four weeks, suddenly there will be a washout of water and your weight will drop.

Another aspect is the difference in calories in a pound of muscle and a pound of fat. If you increase your muscle mass from healthy exercise, you build a pound of muscle with only 600 calories. So you can be losing calories and gain weight as you lose fat (3500 calories per pound) and gain muscles (600 calories pgr pound). That is healthy and you shouldn't be discouraged about that. Exercise may also stimulate your body to retain more fluid — to expand your blood volume — that is a limited affair too. I think you need a consistent program and a little more patience.

(Because of the volume of mail Dr. Lamb cannot answer your letters personally but he will answer representative letters of general interest in his column. Write to him in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.)

exercise do I need to get?

As you can tell I am very discouraged. I've been trying to get these last five pounds off for the last four months. Do you have any suggestions? And can you tell me why I might have gained after all that exercise? I need some advice quickly.

DEAR READER — Congratulations on getting rid of the 15 pounds of fat. Not everyone has enough will power to do that.

I don't like you to restrict your calories that much. I am sending you The Health letter number 4-7, Weight Losing Diet, which will give you a plan you can follow and still have a balanced diet. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents for it with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing.

Exercise helps a person lose weight but it does so, slowly. That is why you need to be consistent with your exercise program. That mile you ran probably used an additional 100 calories at most — probably less

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) A pretended ally may do something against your best interests. Be wary of persons you suspect may be deceitful.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You're far better at rationalizing today than you are at performing. Excuses come easy to you but the energy to do the task won't.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Something may occur today which would permit you to take advantage of another. However, you won't even think along those lines.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A person you're closely associated with may lead you to think too negatively today. Don't take illusion for fact.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Promise nothing for the sake of expediency today. You could be forced to deliver!

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your expensive whims may override your better judgment today. Be extra-careful in shopping or business.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You can see everyone else's faults today but you're blind to your own. Could you be the one out of step?

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Gifts or flattery won't win approval of friends today. Letting your hair down and being honest will, however.

South's three-spade response to North's two-diamond opening showed a seven-card suit and denied possession of an ace or king anywhere with two or more cards in his partner's suit.

North was able to count 11 sure winners at notrump or spades. At notrump the 12th winner would only come from a successful heart finesse. At spades it could also come as North's fifth diamond could be set up. This made the spade slam a very good one and North bid it.

This hand helped decide the national knockout team championship of 1933 because it was bid at one table while the other table stopped at a mere game contract.

The slam failed to make. The late Louis Watson, whose death at the age of 29 just two years later deprived bridge of one of its very best and very nicest players, happened to sit West.

Louis was noted as a sound steady player. He could have made the normal lead of the queen of diamonds. If he had done this south would have found out about the 5-1 diamond break before having to do anything about hearts and taken the heart finesse. But Louis knew it was time for something brilliant. He opened the deuce of hearts. Poor South thought a while, called for dummy's ace of hearts and had to go one down.

11th year for fete

D.B. Round Up May 18-28

The Diamond Bar Juniors and Diamond Bar Jaycees have announced the 11th annual Diamond Bar Round Up will be held from May 18 to 22 at the south end of the Alpha Beta shopping center parking lot.

Contracts have been signed with both clubs and Carnival Time Shows which will provide the rides. This is the same show that provided the carnival attractions last year.

Co-chairmen for this year's round up will be Ed Band and Beth Cummings.

As in year's past, an array of booths will be offered. Both sponsoring groups invite all interested clubs and organizations interested in having a booth call and reserve theirs early. Community booths will be offered to any service group in the Diamond BarWalnut area. Booths rent for $50 and the sale of 100 pre-sale ticket books.

Each ticket book contains eight tickets; a $4.50 value which sells for $3. Sponsors say there will be many game and food booths to choose from. For additional information, persons may contact the booth sales chairman, Ken Boone, at 595-7978 or Barbara Zehe at 595-5786.

Health program planned

"Horizons Unlimited," a health career program for students in grades 9 through 12, will be held at Foothill Presbyterian Hospital, Glendora, on March 29, from 1 to 3 p.m.

The annual health career day is sponsored by the Woman's Auxiliary of the Los Angeles County Medical Association.

Participants will view a 20-minute film dealing with many aspects of health professions, and will then tour various departments throughout the hospital.

Students, counselors, and teachers are invited to view firsthand a nursing floor, the emergency room, pathology laboratory, X ray, physical therapy, housekeeping, respiratory therapy, dietary, in-service and communications departments, according to Mrs. Patricia Dworken, chairman.

They will have an opportunity to talk with department representatives and to ask questions.

Chaffey certificated employes to cast vote

Some 650 certificated employes of the Chaffey Joint Union High School District will cast ballots April 20 to select their exclusive bargaining agent.

Under the state's new collective bargaining law, the election will be conducted by the Education Employes Relations Board (EERB).

Those eligible to vote include classroom teachers, counselors, librarians, nurses, psychologists, psychometrists, speech and language specialists and adult education teachers.

Appearing on the ballot will be Associated Chaffey Teachers-CTA-NEA; the West San Bernardino County Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO; and no representation.

Voting will take place in the foyer of Hill Auditorium on the campus of Chaffey High School in Ontario between 7 and 7:45 a.m. and 2:15 and 5 p.m.

Certificated members of the unit have worked without a contract since school started due to the slowness of EERB in reaching its decision on the appropriate units to appear on the ballot.

Additional information concerning the election may be obtained by calling Mary Virginia Quarles, executive director of Associated Chaffey Teachers, at 983-5713.

Phone company's new system bars check juggling

Checking account jugglers are being warned.

General Telephone Co. has a new system, called "Documate," to process customer payment checks that doesn't allow as mush leeway in getting that coverage check to the bank account.

The new system replaces the manual process previously performed in the company's local business offices. With the Documate system, customer checks are automatically documented, audited and checked for accuracy, and endorsement.

The Documate system balances the checks and stub totals. Payments are then recorded on magnetic tape in the system's minicomputer and sent to the utility's data center in Santa Monica where they are again processed and deposited directly into the banks where they were drawn.

For the customer who juggles his or her checking account — hoping to get to the bank with a deposit before the payment to a creditor does — this may be bad news.

According to Jack King, public affairs administrator, the bank on which the check was written will have deducted the amount from the customer's account usually within 24 hours of payment.

Another efficiency measure has been added to General's payment system — a ZIP code of the company's very own to speed up payments to the central processing location in Santa Monica.

Japanese collection

TOKYO (AP) — A collection of Japanese No robes and masks rarely displayed even in museums will be shown for the first time in the United States from April to September 1977. The 145 objects will be displayed at the National Gallery of Art, Washington, D.C., Japan House Gallery, New York and the Kimbell Art Museum, Ft. Worth, Tex.

"The Tokugawa Collection: No Robes and Masks" is part of the collection of the Tokugawa Museum, opened in 1935 by the 19th lord of Owari, Yochichika Tokugawa, a direct descendant of the first shogun, Ieyasu Tokugawa. The museum houses the largest private collection of Japanese art in the world.

ESAA workshop slated Saturday

An in-service session for teachers, instructional aides, principals, and parents of students in Pomona's Emergency School Aid Act (ESAA) schools will be given Saturday by the project's history and culture of minorities component.

The workshop will be held in room B-7 at Fremont Junior High School from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Participants will be able to choose between two in-services: "Integrating Poetry into the K-12 Curriculum," and "Make and Take Individualized Learning Centers." The session on poetry will be led by Rafael Estupinian, principal of Fremont Junior High.

The learning center workshop will be led by Jo Cunningham and Lydia Vasquez, ESAA's project assistants for the history and culture of minorities, and Ila Nevins, elementary resource teacher.

Silly questions by taxpayers

DETROIT (AP) — As April 15 approaches, the taxpayer service at the Internal Revenue Service office here has been getting some unusual questions:

—"My wife has halitosis and the doctor has prescribed milk of magnesia, about a quart a day. Also she uses a bottle of mouthwash a day. If she didn't use it, you couldn't be in the same room with her, especially after she eats garlicky food. Can I use this as a writeoff on my taxes?"

—"I have a skin ailment and my doctor told me to take a bath every day. Can I deduct the cost of the water?"

—The case of the Marine Corps recruiter who would like to wear his hair long but must have it cut frequently to comply with regulations. Could he deduct his barber bills?

Alas, said Uncle Sam, the answer to all three was no.

Pomona open house dates set

The following dates have been approved by the Pomona school board for open houses at the district's campuses.

Elementary schools: March 31, Kellogg; April 14, Armstrong, Harrison and North San Antonio; April 21, Alcott, Allison, Arroyo, Diamond Point, Golden Springs, Hamilton, Kingsley, Lexington, Lincoln, Madison, Montvue, Philadelphia, Roosevelt, Westmont and Yorba; April 28, San Jose and Washington.

Secondary schools: March 31, Garey High School; April 11, Ganesha High School; April 12, Emerson Junior High School and Simons Junior High School; April 19, Marshall Junior High School and Palomares Junior High School; April 18, Pomona High School; April 20, Fremont Junior High School; April 26, Lorbeer Junior High School; and April 11-15, the adult school.

Unique animal dating service

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Condors are going from the West Coast to the Bronx. Bronx elephants are on their way to Knoxville, Tenn. Hairy-nose wombats from Phoenix, Ariz. are heading for Chicago.

It's all part of an animal "dating service," designed to put more romance in the lives of the condors, elephants and hair-nose wombats of this country's zoos.

The success of a four-year-old computer service which advises 110 zoos in the United States and Canada has excited zoological park people. Shipping costs are shared, along with the offspring which result. The major purpose of the project: to keep endangered species going.

"When there are unpaired animals, loan agreements are the only means of getting species together," Allegra Hamer, assistant zoologist at the Bronx Zoo, said.

"We're sitting here now with five male ducks waiting for the ladies to fly in."

A few months ago a 4,000pound Indian rhinoceros named Golden Girl was flown to California from Philadelphia after she failed over 20 years to mate with the Philadelphia Zoo's male Indian rhino, Golden Boy.

The San Diego Wild Animal Park expects its star stud Indian rhino, Lasai, to help Golden Girl do what Golden Boy couldn't. Nearby is Trib, the park's lowland gorilla who has impregnated two out-of-town females since 1973.

The orangutans at the Brookfield Zoo in Chicago are noted for their active sex lives. Most of the crane sex of which man is aware is taking place at Baraboo, Wis., where the International Crane Foundation has a breeding program.

And so it goes.

The American Association of Zoological Parks and Aquariums runs the International Species Inventory System, located at Apple Valley, Minn. outside Minneapolis.

The only member outside America or Canada is the Rotterdam Zoo in The Netherlands, but the Copenhagen Zoo and others in Europe have expressed interest.

"The foreign zoos are still reluctant because of the cost and the fact that it's an Americaan operation," says Marvin Jones, animal statistician at the San Diego Zoo. Jones went to Europe to sell the idea.

To get the quarterly computer printout of mating species, a zoo must pay $1 for each mammal in its entire collection as of Jan. 1 each year, and 25 cents per bird. That can add up to several thousand dollars annually for some.

The service's computerized list gives the age, sex and number of a species in member zoos. Michael Crotty, curator of animals at the Los Angeles Zoo, said 20 zoos are involved in breeding loans with his animals.

There have been many successful love matches, but not all the pairings have worked.

Recently, two black-necked screamers were sent to the Bronx Zoo to mate with three female screamers. Nothing happened among the primitive ducks.

It's no wonder. A chromosome study showed the girls were really boys.

57 donors give blood at Pomona

By ANNE NIELSEN
Pomona Correspondent

Fifty-seven donors gave blood recently when the Red Cross Bloodmobile was on the Pomona High School campus.

This was a senior class project, held in conjunction with a city-wide contest involving the three high schools.

Members of the senior class campaigned for donors and scheduled 60 appointments.

The PHS Keywanettes helped the Red Cross staff.

More donors contributed blood this year than last year and the senior class feels it has a good chance of keeping the plaque the class won last year.

Weekend soldier is Union cavalry officer in South

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Being a Union cavalry officer in the Deep South is fun, says Robert Williams, despite its drawbacks.

Williams is commanding officer of D Company, 2nd Maine Cavalry, a horseless unit that fought make believe battles at Gettysburg, Atlanta and Knoxville, waged the Red River campaign, looted an antebellum plantation and molested its mistress — smiling at television cameras all the while.

The 2nd Maine is a group of otherwise unremarkable men who invested about $1,200 apiece in outfitting themselves as authentically as possible in Civil War garb, complete with muzzle-loading weapons, oldstyle mess kits, bedrolls, tents — even hand-carved dice and tintype pornographic pictures.

At the blare of a bugle, they and similar groups across the country charge off to re-enact the great battles of the Civil War.

Williams, 29, says there's more to his hobby than just playing soldier. "We're sort of living history. There's an awful lot of research involved. And it's good family activity. The wives get involved in making the uniforms and their own period costumes."

Williams said his unit travels to battle in groups, spending about $300 a year apiece for gas and provisions.

"We go in cars, vans, trailers, recreational vehicles. But once we get there, it's all authentic. We take the equipment out of the vehicles and move them off the field. In cold weather, you can use sleeping bags, just as long as they're covered by blankets."

Not everybody shares the passion for authenticity, he says.

"There's always someone who shows up in a grey Sears work shirt with yellow felt sewn on it, carrying a thermos bottle and dragging a cooler. We call them 'Farbs' or 'Hooples.' I haven't the slightest idea what the names mean — just general terms of derision.

"You get some funny looks when you go in a store and buy unground coffee, so you just get it and go. It's no worse than walking into a South Carolina restaurant in a Yankee uniform."

D Company is mostly for for ceremonial occasions — firing starting guns for steamboat races, for instance. But the company starred in a tea commercial for European TV — that's what occasioned the looting of the plantation and the accompanying mischief.

Williams was drafted into the Union army in 1964 when a halftime show at the Gator Bowl in Jacksonville, Fla., ran short of Yankees. He was covering the event as a reporter for his high school paper and wound up carrying ammunition for artillery pieces.

He joined the 2nd Maine in Florida. His involvement continued through college in Nashville, Tenn., and he organized a company of the 2nd Maine after transferring to the University of New Orleans.

Are you a spooner, a sprawler?

New York psychiatrist says you are how you sleep. . .

By KAY BARTLETT
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Do you sleep in the nude? Never mind. It's no longer the "in" question. The question is in what position.

Let's say you sleep on your back. That's the "royal" position. It shows you feel you're the king or queen of the universe of the sleep world. And also the day world.

On your stomach, kind of spread-eagled over the bed? Then you're a person who wants complete control over your life. You're dominating the available bed space by your position.

Or if you scrunch up in the full fetal position, you're afraid to let yourself go fully, to experience life's joys and sorrows.

That's the opinion of Dr. Samuel Dunkell, 57, a New York psychiatrist who has written a book called "Sleep Positions, the Night Language of the Body."

"In sleep we act out the dramas of our lives, using our bodies instead of our speech to express our joys and griefs, our loves and hates," Dunkell writes. "In the night world, each of us becomes the pantomimist of his own personal saga."

The night world — dreams in particular — has been the grist of psychiatrists and psychoanalysts since Freud.

Dunkell began his research informally 12 years ago, and continued it through interviews with patients — almost all of whom know how they sleep. He says he was first intrigued by the subject when a young woman explained that she slept on her stomach, and on a bias in the bed — thereby squeezing anybody else out of it.

She was doing the same in her day world — especially in her relations with men.

"It was a hard thing for me to grasp that there was this separate universe," says Dunkell. "But the way a man sleeps is the way he lives."

In his book, he cites changes in patients' sleep positions after a problem has been resolved. He tells of couples "talking" to each other by the way they sleep — saying things they can't while awake.

The most romantic sleep position for couples, he says, is the hug — two people face to face. Another romantic and more common sleep position is the spoon, when the couple nestles front to back like two spoons in a drawer.

Couples even shift sleep position in tandem as one tires of sleeping on one side, he says. As a marriage wears on, they may gradually move apart. That's normal, he finds.

But there's also a deliberate freeze maneuever when one partner keeps moving farther and farther away — definitely messaging something.

Some mysteries of the sleep world still elude Dunkell.

His own sleep position? "Semi-fetal," he says.

Why?

"I don't know."

Hot wine, cold cure

CHICAGO (AP) — Paul Kovi, restaurateur and wine authority, says that wine has long been thought to have medicinal value.

Kovi, writing in Sphere magazine, recalls his grandfather's remedy for the common cold, which he called "The Cure of the Two Hats."

Whenever he felt a cold coming on, he took to his bed, covering himself with warm quilts, but leaving one foot stuck out. That foot was covered with a hat. Then he'd call for some boiled wine. Kovi's grandfather said the wine should not only be hot, but spicy, flavored with orange peel, cinnamon stick, cloves and a few peppercorns.

The "cure" required drinking the wine until he saw two hats. The next day, Kovi's grandfather said, he would awaken "sound as an oak tree" and feeling ten years younger.

Kovi says that his grandfather lived to be 99, without ever having the sniffles.

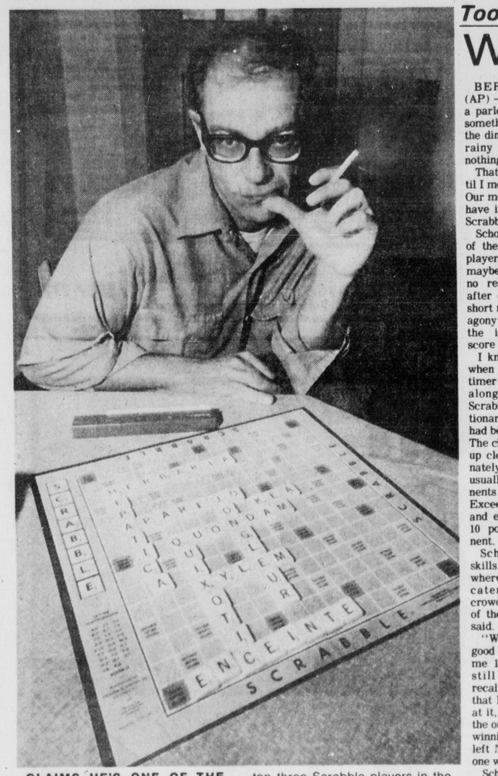
Took on scrabble champ

Writer overmatched in battle of words



CLAIMS HE'S ONE OF THE BEST — Lester Schonbrun of Berkeley claims he's one of the top three Scrabble players in the country — maybe in the world. He honed his skills in New York City.

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Scrabble? It's just a parlor game, I sneered, something people play on the dining room table on a rainy day when there's nothing better to do.

That's what I thought until I met Lester Schonbrun. Our meeting, as fate would have it, took place over a Scrabble board.

Schonbrun says he's one of the top three Scrabble players in the country — maybe in the world. I had no reason to doubt him after our game. In a few short minutes I learned the agony of defeat, losing by the indecently lopsided score of 485-141.

I knew I was in trouble when he brought a chess timer to the rickety table, along with a battered Scrabble set and a dictionary that looked like it had been mauled by a bear. The chess timer, two wind-up clocks that work alternately to time each player, usually is set to give opponents 15 minutes apiece. Exceed your time limit and each minute is worth 10 points for your opponent.

Schonbrun honed his skills in New York City, where several chess clubs cater to the Scrabble crowd. That's where most of the top players are, he said.

"When I started, the good players were spotting me 150 or 175 points and still beating me," he recalled. "But I realized that I was good and I kept at it, and eventually I was the one giving the odds and winning. Just before we left New York, in 1970, no one wanted to play me."

Schonbrun, who admits he has hustled a few games with unsuspecting "fish," says the most he has won at Scrabble is $120. There is no official championship for the game, although there are some tournaments on the East Coast.

Scrabble was created in 1931 by architect Alfred Butts. It was originally sold by friends before Selchow & Righter Co. of Bay Shore, N.Y., was licensed to market it in 1953.

Scrabble is played on a board of 225 squares. Each player chooses seven lettered tiles from a pile of 100, and the object is to spell words on the board, covering as many of the red, blue or yellow extra-point squares as possible to boost your score.

Use of all seven tiles in one move — a bingo — means a 50-point bonus. The winner has the most points when all the tiles are gone.

"You have to know a lot of words," said Schonbrun, a muscular, balding man of middle age who works part time as a taxi dispatcher. "You have to read the dictionary, you have to remember words that are used on you — and you have to know the tricks."

Some of the tricks border on the dishonest, but it's all within the rules. When there's money on the line, as there often is when top players meet, you have to go for every advantage.

"Sometimes, if I can see that my opponent is intimidated by my vocabulary, I'll slip in phony words, words that don't mean anything. If he challenges, of course, I lose a turn. But if he doesn't, I get the points."

Our game started out well enough. Schonbrun set the clocks so I had 25 minutes to five for him, then played AFFECT, which netted him 36 points. I came back quickly with BANAL, a good word, I thought, but worth only 11 points, and I was in a hole which got deeper with each passing move.

Schonbrun put down HERON, and also made the words HA and EL with adjoining tiles, giving him 47 points. The best I could do was BOATS, for a paltry eight points.

Then it was JAVA and AHA for him, DEBIT for me. He played ON and I countered with TAIL, then he slapped down WELDS and I played LOOPS. Suddenly all seven of his letters leaped onto the board for REMOUNTS, while all I could do was NEAT. The score was 238 for him, 62 for me.

Maybe I can make a comeback, I thought, really dazzle him. After all, words are my business. I even cheated when he went to the bathroom, switching one word for a better one after I shut off my clock.

But Lester Schonbrun works in mysterious ways and with mysterious words. How often does DUI pop up in polite conversation? Occasions to use GYVE in a story are rare, and ZEUGMAS is not part of my vocabulary.

He blasts me with another seven-tile word, IGNORES. Then, mercifully, it's over.

"There's an old saying in Scrabble. There are no bad letters, just bad combinations," he says, pointing at the board.

"If we were playing for a dollar a point, you'd be in big trouble."

Stone age discovery

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — An early Stone Age settlement believed to be about 5,000 years old, was discovered in Brezi near Mikulov, on the Czech-Austrian border.

A wine cellar keeper stumbled upon the find when he noticed fragments from ancient vessels protruding from the ground in a newly planted forest.

Sure and it's a lot of 'blarney'

Doubletalk: the Irish have a word for it

By ED DENNEHY
Associated Press Writer

Most Irishmen have had since the days of St. Patrick the gift of gab known as blarney.

For example:

Judge Kelly: Mr. Boyle, haven't you been up before me for a previous offense?

Boyle: Oh, no, your honor. If I was I would have remembered it. How could I forget you. Sure and don't you have the lovely face of St. Patrick himself?

Judge Kelly: Case dismissed.

That's blarney. It is cajolery, flattery, doubletalk, equivocation — call it what you will. This articulate art form enabled the Irish to survive during the years of British domination. It helped to some degree to thwart or delay the takeover of their lands and homes when southern Ireland, now a Republic, was an English province.

This Irish eloquence received the name of blarney from, of all people, Queen Elizabeth I back in the 16th century. The queen wanted Cormec McCarthy, the Irish Lord of Blarney, to give up his ancestral claims to Blarney Castle, his picturesque home in County Cork. Lord McCarthy kept putting off the queen's demands with his persuasive soft soapery.

Exasperated by the delays, the queen finally exclaimed, "This is all blarney. He never means what he says."

And that's why visitors climb up the steps of McCarthy's castle to kiss the Blarney Stone, imbedded high in a tower. It's a tourist lark, of course, but maybe they will acquire some of Lord McCarthy's eloquence.

One of America's most obvious exponents of blarney was Casey Stengel, baseball's leprechaun whose mother was Irish. Stengel's mastery of doubletalk was displayed on many occasions and duly recorded. Perhaps one of the most memorable incidents occurred in 1958 when Casey, then the manager of the World Series champions, the New York Yankees, appeared in in Washington before a Senate committee considering baseball antitrust legislation.

The baseball immortal apparently had decided he would not answer any serious question from the senators at the hearing. So his outrageous form of blarney — also known as Stengelese — came into play.

Casey was asked by a committee member whether "You intend to monopolize the world championship in New York City?"

The loquacious baseball manager replied: "Well, I'll tell you. I got a little concerned yesterday in the first three innings when I saw the three players I had gotten rid of and I said when I lost nine what am I going to do, and when I had a couple of my players I thought so great that did not do so good up to the sixth inning, I was more confused but I finally had to go and call on a young man from Baltimore that we don't own and the Yankees don't own him, and he is doing pretty good, and I would actually have to tell you that I think we are more the Greta Garbo type from success."

What did he say? What did he say?

Slugger Mickey Mantle broke up the hearing when he told the senators that he agreed with everything Stengel said.

Like Lord McCarthy, Stengel wasn't going to let politicians move against organized baseball — Stengel's Castle.

Blarney has become an umbrella word for every form of Irish Talk: tall tales, humor, easy conversation in a cozy Irish pub. Among things covered by the umbrella was President Kennedy's dry wit.

During his 1960 presidential campaign, Kennedy had to attend many fund-raising dinners where his supporters around the country often paid $100-a-plate.

St. Patrick stepped up to the first tee, swung mightily, and scored a hole-in-one.

Whereupon, St. Peter strode to the tee, hit the ball with a tremendous drive, and racked up another hole-in-one.

Says St. Patrick, "Come on, let's cut out the miracles and play golf!"

And then there's the story about the Rev. Mr. Boyd, a Protestant minister who was invited to see Father Kane's new rectory in a village in Ireland's County Kerry.

The minister said, "My, this is far better than that my wife and I have at the parsonage."

Father Kane replied, "Well, Protestant ministers have better halves and Catholic priests have better quarters."

Self-determination, taxing, court powers urged for Indians

WASHINGTON (AP) — American Indians living on reservations should be given the power of self-determination, including the authority to levy taxes and to try non-Indians in their tribal courts, a report for Congress says.

These are among more than 100 recommendations contained in a report by the American Indian Policy Review Commission, a member of the panel said Tuesday night.

The full report is scheduled to be released this week. The 11-member commission was set up by Congress two years ago to review U.S. Indian policy. The panel includes six congressmen and five representatives of Indian tribes.

Basically, the commission has recommended that tribes be considered as sovereign nations, said Rep. Lloyd Meeds, D-Wash.

Meeds is the only member to strongly disagree with the report's rcommendations. The report is being distributed to more than 1,000 groups for comment before it is submitted to Congress on May 18.

Pete Taylor, a commission staff member who helped write the report, said it was an attempt to recognize that the existing powers in Indian tribes "should be the primary government authority on reservations."

He added, "The long-term objective should be bringing those tribes into a position where they are the primary governmental authority."

Meeds said he particularly disagreed with the recommendation that Indians be given the power to tax non-Indians on reservations. He complained that, "Non-Indians wouldn't have any representation in making the decisions. We fought a Revolutionary War over that."

In addition to granting Indians full legal rights to run their own affairs, the report also criticizes the Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA). Meeds said the report contends the bureau has interfered in tribal elections and plays off tribe against tribe.

The report recommends replacing the bureau with an independent agency.

Meeds also said the report complains that the bureau's parent Interior Department faces conflicts of interest in trying to manage both the interests of Indians and their land, water, hunting and fishing rights, with the management of land, water, hunting and fishing for all of the nation.

Under terms of the commission's charter, Congress must consider its recommendations within two years.

The commission is chaired by Sen. James Abourezk, D-S.D. Also on the panel are: Sens. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., and Lee Metcalf, D-Mont., and Reps. Don Young, R-Alaska, and Sidney Yates, D-Ill.

The five Indian members are: Jake Whitecrow, a Quapaw from Oklahoma; Ada Deer, a Menonimee from Wisconsin; John Borbradge of Alaska; former BIA Commissioner Louis Bruce, a Mohawk from New York; and Adolph Dial, a Lumbee from North Carolina.

Taylor said Bruce did not disagree with the report's critical remarks about the BIA.

Long season for McQuaid

Who is the one Pomona Valley basketball product still competing for a team in the NCAA tournament?

Mark McQuaid, Chaffey High's All-CIF star last year, may see some action for Idaho State tonight when the underdog Bengals battle UCLA at Provo, Utah in the West Regionals semifinals to be televised by KNBC (Channel 4) at 8 p.m.

But McQuaid's best hopes for action would be if the Bruins pull way ahead at the end of the game (it isn't even worth thinking about Idaho State pouring it on) when it's garbage time.

McQuaid has found out the cruel facts of big-time college basketball. In one short year, it's easy to go from being a prep hero to a benchwarmer and that has been his fate at Idaho State.

The 6-foot-5 freshman is averaging 1.8 points and 2.3 rebounds per game for the Bengals in his limited tours of duty.

Last week's opening NCAA win over Long Beach State was typical.

Missed dunk

The Ontario resident got into the game — an 83-72 victory — with 1:25 on the clock. He missed his only field goal attempt in trying a dunk and didn't grab a rebound while drawing two personal fouls.

Obviously, sitting on the bench in Pocatello, Ida. wasn't what McQuaid had in mine when dreaming of collegiate glory.

Writer Bob Padecky of the San Bernardino Sun-Telegram had a chance to talk with McQuaid when he went to Pocatello last Saturday to cover the UCLA-Louisville game.

"People always ask me if I get nervous before a game," McQuaid told Padecky "I tell them I don't. The only time I do is when we're 30 points ahead. Then I get nervous. That's when I'm afraid I might play and really mess things up."

There's no question McQuaid has considered transferring schools.

Determined to stay

"I was depressed enough that I would have transferred to another school if somebody would have called me up and offered me a full ride," he said. "That was a month ago. Now I'm determined to stick it out.

"I don't feel like the basketball player I used to be. This season has made me determined to work hard, to make sure I never have another year like this one. If this same thing happens to me again next year, then I would have to totally analyze what I'm doing in basketball."

McQuaid got a bad start at Idaho State when he broke his left hand just after practice started in October and he admits he blew his first big chance against Louisville.

"I got a chance to play at Louisville and proceeded to botch everything up," he said. "I was horrible. The coach hasn't quite recuperated from that catastrophe."

A big reason why McQuaid hasn't seen much playing time is simply because Idaho State has a talented, experienced team. After all, the Bengals carry an impressive 24-4 record into tonight's contest.

And if you are thinking Idaho State is just some team from a small town from Idaho, guess again.

California look

Californians are the heart of the Bengals because of the recruiting talents of coach Jim Killingsworth, who handled the Cerritos College teams before heading for Pocatello.

Killingsworth has three California products in his starting lineup in senior guard Ed Thompson (6-3) from Santa Barbara, junior forward Jeff Cook (6-10) from West Covina and senior forward Greg Griffin (6-7) from Pasadena.

Two key freshmen are forward Paul Wilson (6-5) from Fontana and guard Ernie Wheeler (6-2), the son of the Cal Poly San Luis Obispo coach.

McQuaid has just gone through an experience many freshmen have.

For example, the same thing happened at Santa Clara to Gary Carpenter, the Pomona Valley Player of the Year last season.

Sometimes, the grass really isn't that much greener in far places.

The great success of Greg Ballard at Oregon has proven to be an exception rather than the rule unfortunately.

Tommy Lasorda is for REAL

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

VERO BEACH, Fla. — The Dodgers' Tommy Lasorda is for real.

Lasorda stepped into the breach left by the retirement of Walt Alston at the tail end of last year amid reports that he was a guy who lived and breathed baseball, a graying-about-the-temples cheerleader, a rah-rah type of manager who, when cut, bled Dodger Blue.

Well, for once a publicity and media-created image of a sports figure is right on.

Lasorda was the first one in line to glad-hand visiting sportswriters here Sunday as they stepped off the Dodger jet. This despite a 5-3 exhibition loss L.A. had suffered to Atlanta only hours earlier.

Quizzed by the fleet of media representatives, the new Dodger skipper more than lived up to his press clippings.

"Hell no, I don't feel any pressure following a great manager like Alston," Lasorda quipped. "Why should I?"

"I've got God on my side and 25 players who will play baseball like my wife shops — all day."

Believe it or not, he looked for all the world like he meant every word of it.

While God is yet to be heard from on the subject, it does appear that Lasorda has virtually decided on which 25 players he's going to try to keep, even at this early date in spring training.

In fact, he came right out and said that, barring injuries, he has already decided on his starting eight for Opening Day, April 7, vs. the Giants.

"I feel that I've got eight players who believe in me and themselves, and those eight will start April 7 if they're healthy," Lasorda said.

"I'm going to go with an outfield of Dusty Baker in left, Rick Monday in center and Reggie Smith in right. I feel, right now, that I would not trade that outfield for any other in the majors. These are three guys who can do the job offensively and defensively.

"I know Baker had an off-year last season, but I have tremendous confidence in him. He had a bad year but he is definitely not a bad ball player. He's my starting leftfielder until he proves otherwise."

Lasorda indicated no change in the Dodger infield of Steve Garvey, Davey Lopes, Bill Russell and Ron Cey is planned. In fact, he's looking for another comeback there, this one from Lopes, who like Baker had an off-year in '76 when hampered with injuries.

"Davey will be the leader on this club," Lasorda flatly predicted. "He's capable of being the sparkplug of the team, and I fully expect to see him hit .300 and steal 60 to 70 bases this season.

"We scored 250 less runs than Cincinnati last year and the main reason for that was that Lopes was not at full strength. If he's healthy this time around, we will be a much improved team."

The new Dodger mentor also indicated that he will be going with Steve Yeager as his starting receiver.

"Jim Gilliam has done a great job with Yeager, Steve is swinging the bat much better this spring. In fact, I would say that his performance has been one of the real surprises for me so far."

Lasorda also foresees no change in the Dodger starting pitching rotation.

"I'll be going with a five-man starting staff, Rick Rhoden, Don Sutton, Doug Rau, Tommy John and Burt Hooton. Rhoden is over his arm troubles of last year and I'm sure will be ready to go for us in April.

"I'm not set on the relief men yet, however," Lasorda revealed. "Right now, the only two guys who are assured of their jobs are Charlie Hough and Mike Garman.

"I'm very impressed with this youngster Rick Sutcliffe," noted Lasorda. "He has been the most impressive rookie in camp so far and is really pressing for a job."

Quizzed about the status of veteran Al Downing, who is known to be less than pleased about his contract, Lasorda said, "Al knows I want him as a relief pitcher. He will have to prove to me he can pitch in relief to earn a place on the staff."

Finally, someone asked Lasorda if he has any concern about replacing the ledgendary Alston as Dodger manager.

"No, I don't!" he said emphatically. "All fear comes about from being afraid of failing. I have no fear because I KNOW I can't fail with this bunch of guys and this organization!"

The guy looks and acts for all the world like he means every word of it.

Finley loses case

Progress Bulletin
Sports
Pomona, California ■ Thursday, March 17, 1977

CHICAGO (AP) — Oakland A's owner Charles O. Finley has lost his multimillion-dollar lawsuit against Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, U.S. District Judge Frank McGarr confirmed this morning.

McGarr, who heard the case without a jury, confirmed published reports that he had ruled against Finley. The judge said, however, that he would not release the full decision until later in the day.

Finley said he will appeal the decision.

"Maybe, it's 18 years of blood, sweat and sacrifice down the drain," the embattled Oakland owner said. "That's the 18 years I've been in baseball.

"Naturally, I'm very disappointed with Judge McGarr's decision. My only hope now is with the appellate court. Other than this I have nothing more to say."

The decision says, in effect, that Kuhn had the authority to cancel Finley's $3.5-million sale of A's stars Vida Blue, Joe Rudi and Rollie Fingers.

Finley contended in his suit that Kuhn overstepped his authority because the player sales did not violate any of baseball's existing laws. The sales were voided by Kuhn on the basis that they "were not in the best interest of baseball."

The A's owner argued that he had no recourse but to sell the three star players because they were playing out their options and would have become free agents at the end of the season.

In the original sales, Blue was to have gone to the New York Yankees for $1.5 million, and Rudi and Fingers were sold to the Boston Red Sox for $1 million each.

Rudi, an outfielder, and Fingers, a relief pitcher, played out their options and became free agents after the 1976 season. They were in the pool of baseball's free-agent draft last January, Rudi signing with California and Fingers with San Diego. Finley received no compensation for them.

Blue, one of baseball's top pitchers, signed a multiyear contract with Oakland shortly before the abortive sales and remains with the A's.

Finley and Kuhn have tangled publicly a number of times: In 1971, when the commissioner stopped Finley from sending Reggie Jackson to the minors; in 1972, when Kuhn participated in contract negotiations with Blue, and in 1975, when Finley opposed Kuhn's reappointment as commissioner.

Finley has been outspoken during these encounters, calling Kuhn "the nation's idiot," among other things. Kuhn has kept a lower profile.

Their latest flareup came just last Monday, when Finley told The Associated Press he believed Kuhn voided the sales because he wanted to keep the Oakland team strong and move it to Washington, D.C. His remarks followed reports that a group of American and National League owners were trying to buy the A's, put the team in the NL and move it to the nation's capital.

Kuhn called the allegation "another attempt to draw me into public mud-slinging with him."

During the 15-day trial before McGarr, which ended Jan. 13, Kuhn's attorneys claimed that Finley wasn't entitled to any damages because he kept the three players from June 15 to the end of the season and got value from them.

But Finley's side argued that he was deprived of $2 million he would have gotten for Rudi and Fingers and which he planned to use to sign other A's and free agents. The sales were announced hours before the midnight trading deadline.

Finley publicly charged Kuhn with waging a personal vendetta against him. But Kuhn's attorneys said his decision was reasonable and made without prejudice.

Kuhn said he blocked the sales to maintain competitive balance among American League teams, the integrity of the game and public confidence in it.

But Finley's lawyers argued that the overriding reason for the action was to break an impasse that had stalled labor negotiations between owners and players.

During the trial, McGarr stressed that the key issue was whether Kuhn had the authority to scrap a deal that he felt was not in the best interests of baseball.

Sutton won't talk about renegotiations

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Veteran Los Angeles Dodger pitcher Don Sutton won't confirm reports that he tried and failed to renegotiate his recently signed four-year contract worth an estimated $1 million.

Speaking to reporters at the Dodger spring training camp Wednesday, the 11-year veteran said of reports that two Dodger sources revealed the renegotiation attempt: "Then let them suffer the repercussions."

On Tuesday, Dodger vice president Al Campanis said efforts to trade Sutton to the Boston Red Sox had fizzled. The Dodgers wanted power-hitting outfielder Jim Rice in return.

"Al and I had an agreement that after 1976 henceforth and forevermore that all our discussions would take place in his office. But if that's what he said, I guess I'll have to go along with it," said the 31-yearold pitcher who posted a 21-10 record last season.

"It's been a smooth, uncomplicated spring and I don't want to get involved in any debates," he added.

The Dodgers were idle Wednesday.

Foreman gets test

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — George Foreman pits his power against the finesse of Jimmy Young tonight in a scheduled 12-round heavyweight fight in which poise could prove to be the winning ingredient.

Young's style is to frustrate an opponent by slipping and moving and clutching.

"I gurantee that before the end of the third round you're going to hear some boos because George Foreman is going to lose his head. He's going to get frustrated and do something dirty."

UCLA, Las Vegas fear opponents

PROVO, Utah (AP) — If national rankings and oddsmakers decided tonight's NCAA Western Regional basketball semifinals, Nevada-Las Vegas would beat Utah and UCLA would sail past Idaho State.

But coach Jerry Tarkanian of Nevada-Las Vegas and Gene Bartow of UCLA apparently haven't read that script.

"I fear Utah as much as any team in the tournament," says Tarkanian, whose fourth-ranked Rebels are 26-2.

Utah, No. 14 at 21-6, defused Tarkanian's offensive powerhouse 100-96 last December.

"I've been at times disturbed by this year's team," Tarkanian says. "At times we played hard and at times we didn't." One time they did was last week, when Nevada-Las Vegas humbled San Francisco 121-95 in a regional quarter-final.

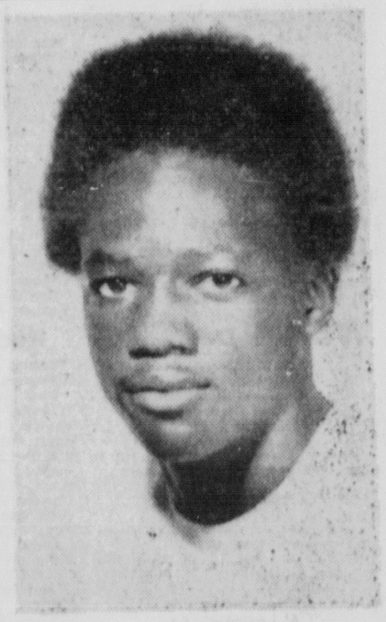
Bartow says second-ranked UCLA, seeking its 11th national title in 14 years, isn't looking past unranked Idaho State to Saturday's final.

"Idaho State has played a lot of good teams and has won some games against good competition," he says. Both have 24-4 records.

Big Sky Conference champion Idaho State was beaten 89-68 earlier in the year by Louisville, a team UCLA defeated 87-79 last week. But Idaho State had a 98-73 victory over California, victim of two UCLA defeats.

A painful wisdom tooth plagued All-American forward Marques Johnson last week against Louisville and forced him to miss practice Monday. But Bartow says Johnson practiced Wednesday and appears ready.

He says he plans to start freshman center Gig Sims, but adds 7-foot Provo native Brett Vroman will see more action than usual to counter Idaho State's height.



LOUIS COLE . . .
Prep Athlete of the Week

Louis Cole wins Elks prep honor

Pomona High senior Louis Cole has been named the Progress Bulletin's Prep Athlete of the Week.

Cole, a 5-foot-6, 145-pounder, earned the award with his outstanding performance in three field events last Thursday in Pomona's track meet with Upland.

He won the high jump, long jump and triple jump to individually account for 15 points in Pomona's 78-49 win over the Highlanders.

Cole cleared 6-6 in the high jump, matching his career best, long jumped 21-5 and triple jumped 41-10.

He came right back with another big day Saturday in the Steeler Relays at Fontana. Cole went 6-4 to lead Pomona's win in the high jump relay and long jumped 21-7 as the Red Devils won the meet.

Cole will be presented a plaque by Pomona Elks Lodge 789, sponsor of the Progress Bulletin's Athlete of the Week award, at a dinner at the lodge April 13.

Claremont makes baseball fun

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

At Claremont High, a baseball game is now a "happening."

Jack Helber, in his first year as varsity coach, has come up with some innovations that make attending a baseball game a real event.

Helber has the Claremont High band performing. He has a public address announcer (Brent Bosson). He has "bat girls" (Pam Kinsey and Celeste Phaneuf). And he hopes to eventually get the cheerleaders out.

"I want to get people involved in the baseball program," Helber explained. "If they have all those things, the band, cheerleaders, etc. at football and basketball games, why can't we have them at baseball games?"

When San Antonio League play began Tuesday, Claremont High had the most impressive opening day ceremonies in the valley.

In addition to the band, Helber had Principal John Mann throw out the first pitch to Supt. of Schools Dr. Richard Kirkendall.

Tuesday was also "T-shirt Day." Donations of 25 cents were accepted. A drawing was held and four T-shirts were awarded.

Cap Night is the next promotion scheduled. Claremont High will play its first night baseball game April 1 with Upland providing the opposition.

Once again donations of 25 cents will be accepted and four caps will be awarded at a drawing. The Wolfpack will play two other night games. The dates are May 3 (at Upland) and May 6 against Damien.

"I want to have something special for the Damien game too," Helber said. "It's just to get the people more involved in the Claremont baseball program."

To make attending a baseball game at Claremont High more interesting, coach Helber has put some benches in the outfield.

"That's for the bleacher set," he grinned. "Our field is a park anyway. It created new ground rules. But it's something new."

The Wolfpack also has a golf cart which Helber was going to use to bring relief pitchers in. But the warmup pitching mound was moved in by the Claremont bench, so relief hurlers walk in.

Helber, who coached the junior varsity at Claremont for six years before becoming varsity coach this year, said his main objectives have been to unify the coaching staff and promote interest in the baseball program.

He organized the first booster club the baseball team has had and credits the club, Principal John

RON THOMAS

Thomas to try Aztecs

Ron Thomas of Claremont, star fullback on Pomona-Pitzer soccer teams the last four years, has signed an "amateur contract" with the Los Angeles Aztecs of the North American Soccer League.

Thomas was a third-round draft choice of the Aztecs and a first-round selection of the expansionist California Sunshine of the American Soccer League.

"It came down to a deadline with the Aztecs," Thomas admitted. "I could get no committment that the Sunshine was even going to get off the ground.

"I signed an amateur contract with them because I won't be able to start practicing full time until I graduate in May. If I can show I have the ability to make the top 16, I'll be able to negotiate a professional contract."

Thomas was All-CIF as a senior at Claremont High. He was All-SCIAC and All-NAIA District III for four years at Pomona-Pitzer and made the West Coast All-American team last fall.

Detroit has cage fever

By the Associated Press

"It's like Chuck Wepner fighting Muhammad Ali."

That's the way Detroit Coach Dick Vitale looks at his school's task tonight as the Titans go up againt top-ranked Michigan in the Mideast Regional of the NCAA basketball tournament.

"We're the underdog fighting the large national school," Vitale explained. "They have the million-dollar sports program. And we have not had the athletic heritage—no football program and other programs like they have. They know how to win and know what it is."

Michigan Coach Johnny Orr is also looking forward to the matchup with the 12th-ranked Titans, calling it "the greatest game for fan interest in our state's history."

Even though the two schools are just 30 miles apart, they have not met since the 1973-74 season and aren't scheduled to clash again this decade.

So tonight's game "has created quite a storm in the state of Michigan," Vitale said, "particularly in Detroit. Basketball fever has run rampant in the city."

The game between Michigan, 25-3, and Detroit, 25-3, will be the nightcap of the Mideast Regional doubleheader at Lexington, Ky. In the opener, No. 6 Syracuse, 26-3, plays No. 17 North Carolina-Charlotte, 24-3.

The other three regional semifinals also will be played tonight. In the East Regional at College Park, Md., No. 20 VMI, 26-3, meets No. 3 Kentucky, 25-3, and No. 10 Notre Dame, 21-6, plays No. 5 North Carolina, 254. In the Midwest Regional at Oklahoma City, No. 7 Marquette, 21-7, takes on No. 16 Kansas State, 23-7, and No. 9 Wake Forest, 23-6, plays unranked Southern Illinois, 22-6. In the West Regional at Provo, Utah, No. 14 Utah, 22-6, opposes No. 4 Nevada-Las Vegas, 26-2, and No. 2 UCLA, 24-4, goes against unranked Idaho State, 24-4.

The Wolverines, led by 6-foot-7 Phil Hubbard and super-quick guard Ricky Green, have won their last seven games. Detroit's key players are John Long, averaging 20.5 points a game, and 6-7 Terry Tyler.

Syracuse, which has won seven straight and 18 of the last 19, has a 6-11 freshman center named Roosevelt Bouie who will be severely tested by NCCharlotte's Cedric "Cornbread" Maxwell, who averages 22 points and 12 rebounds per game.

Tradition-rich Kentucky will have to be on guard when it plays VMI. "It's a mistake if you don't respect a team like VMI," warned Kentucky Coach Joe Hall. "They can't be overlooked."

Kentucky's two 6-foot-10 stars are ailing, but both are expected to play. Rick Robey is recovering from a bruised heel while Mike Phillips has a sprained right wrist.

The other game in the East Regional matches two other tradition-rich schools, Atlantic Coast Conference champion North Carolina and Notre Dame, which capped its regular season by ending San Francisco's bid for an unbeaten record.

Two fine forwards will be on display in the Marquette-Kansas State matchup, 6-10 senior Bo Ellis of Marquette and 6-5 freshman Curtis Redding of Kansas State.

Wake Forest erased a 13-point deficit to upset Arkansas in the sub-regional.

Helber makes it fun

Except for some prior committments, the band will appear at the SAL home games for the Wolfpack or about four of seven.

"I want to see if we can't get a few 'charges' and some 'clap, clap' things from the band so that people can get more involved," Helber said.

"The cheerleaders area is one we haven't developed yet. I'd like them out leading cheers between innings, but they're a little shy about starting baseball cheers."

One of Helber's behind-the-scenes changes to upgrade the baseball program has dealt with job titles. Instead of a freshman coach, a jayvee coach, etc. etc., they are assistant coaches who work with the freshmen, junior varsity, etc.

JACK HELBER

Cliff Hoover works with the freshmen, Gerry Flora with the jayvees and Mike Gafney assists Helber with the varsity.

"They've done a heck of a job," Helber said. "They've really helped get this program started."

Last Friday, another Helber project, the First-Pitch Dinner was held. It is to be an annual affair. The boosters flew former major league shortstop Dal Maxvill out from St. Louis to be guest speaker.

Maxvill was adopted by Helber's team two years ago as its favorite player.

"Mark Lane, our catcher, found out from his dad that Maxvill holds the fielding record for shortstops with over 10 years in the major leagues," Helber explained.

"It got everybody interested and Mark got the nickname 'Dal.' Whenever anyone makes a good play, he's called Dal. I wanted to emphasize things like hitting behind the runner so I started giving points for them and at the end of the season, the one with the most points wins the Dal Maxville Award. We've given two of them out now."

Helber's dedication to baseball and athletics doesn't end with his coaching duties. He owns the Orange Julius stand on Foothill Blvd.

It sponsors the American Legion team he coaches in the summer and employs athletes to provide part-time jobs. Legion practice begins as soon as school ends.

That will be about May 10 unless we're in the playoffs," Helber grinned. "I kinda hope it's delayed."

Zamora gets Zarate bout

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Alfonso Zamora and Carlos Zarate, the two reigning world bantamweight champions, have signed to meet in a 10-round non-title bout at the Forum April 23, the Forum announced.

The match between the two unbeaten fighters marks the first time since the World Boxing Association and World Boxing Council were formed that the two champions have met in a non-title bout.

Zamora, the WBA champ, is unbeaten in 28 fights and has knocked out all his opponents. He won the title March 14, 1975, when he stopped Korea's Soo Hwan Hong in four rounds.

Zarate, the WBC champ, is also unbeaten, with 44 victories and 43 knockouts. He got his title May 8 of last year when he stopped Rudolfo Martinez in nine rounds at the Forum.

The champions, both from Mexico City, are guaranteed $125,000 each for the bout, the Forum said Wednesday.

Grich back with Angels

SUN CITY, Ariz. (AP) — Bobby Grich got tired of imitating Mark Spitz.

So he decided to imitate Bobby Grich.

Ignoring his doctor's advice, Grich rejoined the California Angels Wednesday and watched his standin collect two hits and score twice. Mario Guerrero's efforts and a home run and three RBI by second baseman Jerry Remy were wasted in the Angels' 9-5 loss to Milwaukee.

Grich, signed for $1,550,000 after baseball's re-entry draft, had been out of action for nearly two weeks with a sore back. His doctor had advised him to take up swimming and rejoin the team Saturday in Palm Springs.

"I got tired of individual sports," Grich said with a grin. "I found out they are no fun. I was beginning to feel like Mark Spitz."

The former Baltimore star spent four days in traction.

"I haven't felt any pain for three days," he said. "I ran a mile Tuesday and didn't feel any pain afterward. I had to come here. I was going crazy."

Grich was able to take part in the regular batting practice for two minutes. "I talked to the doctor (Dr. Michael Sukkoff) and told him I was coming here," Grich reported.

"He said, 'I'd rather you didn't, but if you do, take it easy'."

The infielder said he had no idea when he would be able to take his place in the lineup.

Bonita, Walnut girls win

The Bonita High girls' basketball team beat Ontario, 58-23, Wednesday at Ontario.

Robin Hayden led Bonita with 20 points. Nan Matza scored 14 and Tricia Gough grabbed 14 rebounds.

Bonita, 4-0 in league play and 12-1 overall, will meet Sierra Vista Friday at Sierra Vista at 3:15 p.m.

Walnut High's girls defeated San Dimas, 35-24, at San Dimas. Previously, Walnut beat Ontario, 51-15, and Sierra Vista, 67-19. Walnut has held the opposition to an average of 19 points while averaging 53 the last three games.

Walnut's big game will be March 25 hosting Gladstone in an 8 p.m. contest that will decide a CIF berth.

Rain stops local action

Rain caused postponement of the only baseball games scheduled Wednesday.

The doubleheader between La Verne College and Chapman will be rescheduled as a single night game April 20 at La Verne (7 p.m. start).

The Citrus Belt League contest between Chaffey High and Pacific of San Bernardino will be played next Thursday, March 24 at Chaffey at 3:15 p.m.

Relief pitcher Rawly Eastwick of the Cincinnati Reds turned in a 2.09 earned run average in 1976. He had an 11-5 record for 107 innings.

Second place goal for JC tracksters

By MIKE BROSSART
PB Staff Writer

Second place in the final dual meet standings of both the South Coast Conference and the Mission Conference will in all probability be decided Friday afternoon.

Mt. San Antonio College will travel to Fullerton to meet the Hornets in a key SCC clash while Citrus will host Chaffey in a Mission Conference matchup. Both meets will begin at 3 p.m.

Unfortunatley for the four teams involved, the dual meet title does not appear to be at stake in either conference. Grossmont has already defeated MSAC and Fullerton while Palomar has bested Chaffey and Citrus.

MSAC coach John Norton got a lift last week from beating Arizona Mesa, perennially one of the nation's top JC track teams. But the Mounties received no help from Fullerton, which fell to Grossmont, virtually clinching the SCC title for the team from San Diego.

"I felt that Fullerton would beat them," said Norton. "Unfortunately I'm afraid that Fullerton might be tougher for us than Grossmont," which edged MSAC by a single point.

"Fullerton is strong in some areas that Grossmont was not," Norton added. "Our meet at Fullerton should be very tight."

The high hurdles will match MSAC's Todd Kaberline against Fullerton's Tom Turner. Turner ran a 14.0 last year but has been around 14.4 and 14.5 so far this year, as has Kaberline.

Other pivotal events, according to Norton, could be the triple jump, long jump and distances. "Every event will be a key event," Norton summed up.

The MSAC coach was quite pleased with his team's performance last year, when the Mounties defeated Mesa and Phoenix College in Arizona.

Mountie sprinters Raymond Reeb, Stan Webster, Harold Tassin and Edgar Orange combined for a 41.6 in the 440 relay to top the meet's marks.

MSAC also swept the long jump, in which Reeb sailed 24 feet, 7 inches, Webster went 24-4 and Kaberline was third at 23-1.

"Barry Boettcher (of Pomona High) turned in another fine double," said Norton. "He won the mile easily in 4:20 and we had him relax in the three mile, where he was fourth.

"The high hurdles was sort of a comedy event. The hurdles were placed wrong — at the wrong distances. Then Anthony Green lost a shoe when he kicked a hurdle and he ran the last two hurdles with just one shoe. But Anthony won anyway at 14.8."

Chaffey and Citrus had relatively easy tune-ups last week for their clash Friday. Citrus belted San Bernardino, 111-34, and Chaffey defeated San Diego City, 84-63.

"I expect some very good marks when we meet Chaffey," said Citrus coach Vince O'Boyle. "Both teams have some outstanding athletes, but I don't know if we have as many as they do. We've eliminated some problems on our team by not having certain people out for the team." in the sprints now.

"I just hope," laughed O'Boyle, "that since the meet is the day after St. Patrick's Day (today), maybe the Irish in me will bring us a little luck. I might have to kiss the Blarney Stone or something."

O'Boyle and Chaffey coach Chuck Hicks agree that the 800, the 1,500 and the 5,000 could be key events in Friday's meet.

"Obviously this meet is for second place," said Hicks, "but it should be a very good one. They're strong in some areas that we aren't and vice versa."

Corcoran celebrates on St. Patrick's Day

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Today was St. Patrick's Day, the perfect chance for a guy named Timothy Michael Corcoran to celebrate.

Corcoran has good reason— and not just because of his Irish name.

Wednesday, four days before his 24th birthday, the rookie outfielder blasted a home run in the bottom of the 13th inning, giving the Detroit Tigers a 5-4 exhibition victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Tuesday, Corcoran had smashed a two-run homer in the 11th inning in a 3-1 triumph over the Philadelphia Phillies.

"It's been a lucky two days. I usually hit about one home run a month," said Corcoran, who hit five all last season in the Class AA Southern League.

In 13 spring at-bats, the lefthanded hitter from Covina, Calif., has ripped six hits and driven in four runs.

"The kid is opening a few eyes, isn't he?" asked Manager Ralph Houk. "He's hot right now."

Corcoran had not received much attention from the media. Most of it has gone to rookie Steve Kemp, who is expected to assume the left field job ahead of Willie Horton. But Houk said of Corcoran, "We have been talking about him since the first day he got here."

Does he have a shot at making the team in view of the presence of Kemp plus veterans Horton, Ron LeFlore, Ben Oglivie, Rusty Staub and Mickey Stanley?

Replied Houk, "If he keeps hitting like that, there has got to be a chance. But you can't judge hitters very well down here because of the way the pitching is. You go by what he did last year. He is an impressive hitter."

Last season, Corcoran's third as a pro, he batted .309, drove in 60 runs and clubbed 25 doubles at Montgomery, Ala.

He said Wednesday's homer off Pittsburgh rookie left-hander Rod Scurry came on a change-up high and inside. "And the wind was blowing that way," he said.

The homer came after Corcoran had the bunt sign twice. The first one he took for a strike and the second he missed, allowing pinch runner Lou Whitaker to get picked off second base.

Elsewhere, Sal Bando and Dave Johnson, a couple of veterans, also did some lusty hitting.

Bando, the former Oakland captain, socked two home runs off California's Frank Tanana as the Milwaukee Brewers beat the Angels 9-5.

"I don't judge how I'm doing by the home runs, but by the way I hit the ball," he said, "and I'm hitting the ball pretty good."

Johnson, the major league record-holder for home runs in a season by a second baseman, is trying to make it with Philadelphia after a couple of years in Japan. He drove in five runs, four with a grand slam homer, in the Phillies' 13-3 rout of the Montreal Expos.

The Boston Red Sox unloaded five homers—two by Carl Yastrzemski—in a 10-inning, 7-4 decision over the New York Yankees.

Pete Redfern, Geoff Zahn and Jim Gideon scattered six singles as the Minnesota Twins blanked the Baltimore Orioles 3-0.

Dan Driessen's two-run triple highlighted a five-run sixth inning that carried the Cincinnati Reds past the New York Mets 7-4.

Atlanta's Andy Messersmith, in his first spring outing, hurled three perfect innings, then yielded three runs in the fourth, but the Braves held on to defeat the Texas Rangers 5-4. A split squad of Braves, though, bowed to the Houston Astros 3-1 as Cesar Cedeno drove in a pair of runs.

The San Diego Padres shaded the San Francisco Giants 7-5 on Doug Rader's three-run homer. Home runs by Bill Melton and John Grubb helped the Cleveland Indians outslug the Chicago Cubs 14-8. The Toronto Blue Jays blew a 6-0 lead and lost to the Kansas City Royals 7-6 on Clint Hurdle's seventh-inning homer.

Becerril gets test tonight

LOS ANGELES — Carlos Becerril will be in line to fight world super feather-weight champion Alfredo Escalera this summer if he can get past Vicente Hernandez in tonight's featured 10 round main event at the Olympic Auditorium.

Becerril, rated no. 8, is 23-2 with 17 knockouts and stopped Rafael Nunez in one round his last match, Dec. 6, at the Olympic.

Olympic matchmaker Don Chargin says he has been in contact with Escalera in Puerto Rico about a summer title match at the Olympic, "But," Chargin says, "Becerril will have to win tonight."

Hernandez, 15-5 with nine knockouts, dropped a split 10 round decision to Javier Muniz his last fight at the Olympic two years ago. He has won six of his last seven matches fighting out of Oakland.

Tonight's card begins at 8 p.m.

Mark Littell, 23, of the Kansas City Royals had a 2.04 earned run record for 104 innings in 1976. His record was 84.

Stags travel to San Diego

SAN DIEGO — Claremont-Mudd's track and field team will participate in a rare Friday afternoon meet here this week.

The Stags will take on host Point Loma and Chapman in a triangular meet at 1 p.m.

"Point Loma looks strong on paper compared to us," said C-M coach Gayle Hopkins. "We saw Chapman last week at the Kingsmen Relays and they're not that tough.

"We took third (in the Kingsmen Relays) at Thousand Oaks," Hopkins added. "As far as quantity goes, we did pretty well. We got several seconds and thirds.

"But the sprint relay was really our only quality race."

Stag runners Ray Leos (880), Art Pinkney (220), Jon Lee (220) and Danny Goldman (440) won the sprint medley in 3:40.2.

"We had some good splits at Thousand Oaks," Hopkins said, "but everything — even field events — was scored as a total of three or four performances. We really haven't seen yet what we can do as a dual meet team, but we should find out Friday."

Ed Kranepool's 10th 1976 home run enabled the Mets to tie the score in the eighth inning against Montreal. His bases loaded single in the ninth won the game, 5-4, on Sept. 28th.

Most heart experts believe that physical activity helps

EDITOR'S NOTE — Your heart pumps some 100,000 times a day, nearly 40 million in a year, so it's no stranger to exercise. If the rest of you is, most experts believe, you're doing your heart no favor. Reasonable physical activity can be a tonic for it. Last of three articles.

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — Looking at the indolent, power-assisted American way of life, a physician who plays vigorous tennis at age 73 says: "Most of us don't wear out. We rust out."

Most heart specialists might well agree with that statement of Dr. Theodore G. Klumpp of New York, medical consultant to the President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports.

Exercise, they say, is a heart tonic. It helps to prevent heart attacks. It probably makes attacks less severe if they do occur. And carefully prescribed, graduated exercises are one of their antidotes against another attack.

The American Heart Association says regular exercise "is at least prudent" as a hope of avoiding heart attacks and making heart transplants or artificial hearts unnecessary for potentially millions of men and women.

No one can actually prove that exercise is protective.

Some doctors, including those who don't exercise, say exercise is not necessary, or that it might even be harmful.

True enough. Joggers sometimes fall dead. So do some tennis players. But so also do some golfers, whose exercise may be no more than a leisurely walk, if they don't hop aboard golf carts.

About half of all heart attacks occur during sleep.

"Hard work never hurt a healthy heart," said the late Dr. Paul Dudley White, the eminent heart specialist who championed bicycling and hiking and life-long exercise. He died at age 87 from a stroke.

At age 88, Eula Weaver of Santa Monica, Calif., keeps winning gold medals for running mile and half-mile races in Senior & Events. She has six medals so far.

Seven years ago she was crippled with congestive heart failure, anginal pains, had galloping high blood pressure and severe arthritis.

She followed an ultrastrict, almost fatless diet designed by Nathan Pritikin, a nutritionist, to correct her artery-clogging disease of atherosclerosis. Intially, she could walk only 100 feet before heart pains hit. Gradually increasing walking exercise was prescribed, then later she turned to jogging and running.

Pritikin says he thinks the vigorous exercise can be credited with 10 to 20 per cent of her remarkable transformation. The major benefit, he says, came from the diet of 10 per cent protein, 10 per cent fat, and the rest carbohydrates, with salt restricted, and no cholesterol.

Director of the Longevity Research Institute founded a year ago in Santa Barbara, Calif., he tells of other men and women who he reports have returned to health, some having avoided anticipated coronary bypass surgery.

Pritikin has some medical supporters as well as critics who he says will be answered soon when he publishes research results.

Cardiologists blame the soft, inactive way of life for sabotaging Americans' hearts. We ride rather than walk a few blocks. We have power steering and power lawn mowers and electric can openers. Machines perform our labors at work or at home. We watch rather than participate in sports.

Less physical activity means spending fewer calories, so too many Americans "bank" more calories as savings than they spend, with resulting bulges or outright obesity. Being overweight is not considered healthy for the heart or body in general.

"Physical inactivity should be fought as much as crime in the streets, and as a disease as serious as cancer and tuberculosis," says Dr. Zenonas Danielevicius in a recent editorial in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Exercise burns calories. A really brisk walk can withdraw five to six calories per minute from the "bank." One pound of fat represents 3,500 stored calories, usually banked by the habit of consuming somewhat more calories per day than are spent.

Specialists say regular, rhythmic and vigorous exercise gives the heart reserves to meet emergencies. They mean real exercise, several times a week.

Exercise often can help reduce elevate blood pressure and help control diabetes. The physically fit person is less likely to suffer low back pains and is more likely to sleep better. Exercise can reduce muscular and emotional tensions. And, say some, one's sex life is likely to improve, too.

All specialists warn against sudden ventures into strenuous exercise on your own. Have a physician check your heart and general fitness and consult how best to begin.

Recommended are exercises that involve the large muscles of the legs, to improve circulation and work for the heart. This means physical movement as in brisk walking, jogging, tennis, swimming, dancing, table tennis an the like. And of course it helps if the activity is fun rather than just dutiful.

Isometric exercises, opposing muscles against one another, or weight lifting can build stronger muscles, but don't confer the same kind of benefit for the heart, the specialists say.

See to it, they add, that your children develop physical activity as a lifelong habit.

Some studies indicate that vigorous, regular exercise helps reduce the blood level of cholesterol, the fatty substance blamed as a main culprit in narrowing and clogging heart arteries, setting the stage for heart attacks.

Over-all, the majority opinion is that you help your heart by being physically active, at work or play or both.

New Indian history

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chicago's Newberry Library recently received a grant to prepare an Atlas of Great Lakes Indian History.

The atlas will deal with Indian history and Indian-white relations in the Great Lakes and Ohio Valley region from 1615 to 1871. It will cover such disruptions to Indian life as inter-tribal warfare, refugee movements, epidemics, international treaties, encroachment by white settlers and the establishment of reservations and land allotments.

The grant of $173,642 was made by the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Evictions soar

Winter season cruel for those who can't afford to pay the rent

By TOM TIEDE

BALTIMORE (NEA) — Mary Koppleman had gone out during the morning "to get some help." None was available. "I called the city, I called my church, but nobody would listen." When she returned to her apartment the moving men were already there, grim and impassive, putting the woman's belongings into the street.

"What are you doing?" she protested.

A man in a business suit introduced himself. Matt Bauler, city constable. He showed the woman a court order of eviction. He said the decision was final. She was being put out; no appeal.

"Don't touch that!" the woman shouted.

"It all has to go," the constable explained.

"I paid my rent," she said.

"I'm sorry," he replied.

No doubt Constable Bauler was sorry. Evicting people from their homes is a sad business at any time, and particularly during one of the worst winters in history. Yet the law does not operate by Celsius. As many as 100 people a day are being thrown into Baltimore's streets; the figures are equally steep elsewhere in America.

Landlords say that the winter itself is responsible for many of the evictions. Fuel bills have doubled and lessors argue that the reduced profit margins will no longer allow the luxury of sympathy for tenants who fall behind. They point out that real estate is business, not good will, and it's too bad about the wind chill factor.

Tenants who are broke and facing the reality of the matter do have some recourse. In Baltimore a city-operated anti-eviction unit has been established to protect the renter's legal rights. Judges in most other towns and Middlesex villages are charged with doing the same. Yet the law is clear: no rent, no room, climate notwithstanding.

So it was for Mary Koppleman, a small, slight widow in her early 60s. Her rent payment was two months in arrears. The court gave her 30 days to make it up. A week from the deadline Constable Bauler tacked an eviction warning on her door. And then it happened.

"Don't look through by drawers," she told a mover.

"We have to take it out," said the constable.

"You have no right to look at my things," she insisted.

The woman's apartment was small, and furnished only with a mattress on the floor, a chair and a metal bureau. Plastic flowers hung from the windows. Religious artifacts made of plaster stood on ledges. Some dresses and coats hung in a small closet and the rest of her clothing and papers were stuffed in boxes and shopping bags.

It was mostly junk, the constable said, "But not to her, to her it's treasure." He said it would be piled on the sidewalk and then taken by a city truck to a private warehouse. He explained to the woman that she would have to pay for storage. He knew she probably could not pay, and might never see the treasures again.

The woman stood by a window, watching her goods on the street. She said she was worried they'd be stolen. She said someone was always stealing from her. She talked incessantly, as if it somehow helped. Of money, and hard luck, and Joe DiMaggio. "They've been trying to get me on a farm," she said, "but I won't go to a farm."

As she talked she gathered up things in her arms. A piece of fake fur. A teapot. A crucifix. Yellowed papers. A roller from a tin table. When she had taken too much to carry the items began to drop around her. Still she grabbed for more, protectively, accusing the men in the room of trying to take the valuables from her.

As the apartment emptied, Mary Koppleman noticed the dirt. "See there," she said, "mice droppings!" The landlord said he wanted to exterminate, but she wouldn't let him in. Hair hung down her face. Lint and dust covered her coat. Her eyes were inflamed and tired. "You," she said, "are the rottenest landlord that I have ever known."

And then it was over. Her things were in the street and so was she. People passed by, not noticing. The door to her building closed.

"Where will you go?" she was asked.

"I don't know," she said.

The temperature in the street that day was 12 degrees Fahrenheit.

Earthquake unit set up

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A municipal task force has been set up to establish a preparedness program for dealing with earthquakes.

The task force was named Monday by Mayor Tom Bradley to deal with government coordinaiton, economic stability, building safety, hazardous faclities, psychological and social impact, and public information.

UNENVIABLE JOB — Constable Matt Bauler of Baltimore has an unpleasant job — enforcing evictions. "It's mostly junk," he said of the possessions of an evicted woman "but to her, it's treasure."

'Me and Bessie'

Old show still new

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

Bessie's back!

Sitting in the audience for the seventh time for a performance of "Me and Bessie", I felt not the smallest degree of disappointment. Linda Hopkins, in her tribute to first Empress of the Blues Bessie Smith, is still stupendous and enthusiastically fresh.

The songs are classic. The simple folk and the music and blues connoisseur both recognize the melodies. But the fun and perfection is in the delivery.

Miss Hopkins, without a doubt, delivers with the full capacity of the talents within her. She has made Bessie Smith immortal, brought her and her music to the generations that came after the Empress. She proves the truth of the statement "Nobody sits still when Bessie sings."

Miss Hopkins opens with the melodious tone of a church solo. When she sings, it makes you want to go back to church. The gospel root winds and interwines; the spirituality is real.

The lines, heard so many times before, still stimulate: makes you laugh, cry, feel a special joy inside. She tells you how it was for Bessie, how it had to be also for her — "In the South, you grew up young, you grew up black and you grew up Baptist."

She takes you back to when you were "sitting down on a Sunday morning denying your Saturday night."

"T'Ain't Nobody's Bizness If I Do" has that personalized touch that made blues a distinctive style, an art. "New Orleans Hop Scotch Blues" highlights the dancing talents of her accompanying performers Thomas M. Pollard and Gerri Dean.

Dean, companion performer with Miss Hopkins for three years, is her usual provocative and limber self; and Pollard is a sensuous, masculine addition.

Howlett Smith accompanies her again on piano. His keys are gospel rhythm personified on "God Shall Wipe All Tears Away"; fast and funky on "Preach Them Blues"; smooth and soft on "Fare Thee Well." He changes moods with Bessie/Linda and fits the keys to her mind, creating a natural duo of musical expertise.

Linda Hopkins is a sweet sound, the essence rare, a mood stylist.

If there must be an end there is no better end than the moving, mournful "Trouble."

"Me and Bessie" continues at Hollywood's Huntington Hartford Theater through March 27.

Super oil tankers set

WASHINGTON (AP) — Marine architects say it is now possible to build million-ton tankers to carry crude oil across the ocean, reports National Geographic.

At present the largest tankers are between 400,000 and 500,000 tons and most of the 4,500 tankers now in service are in the 80,000-ton range. But, Geographic notes, there are at least 575 tankers which are 160,000 tons or larger and the demand for crude oil has pushed up the size of the ships that carry it.

One oil company executive estimates that shipping costs between the Middle East and the United States are cut by 30 per cent when the crude is shipped in 250,000-ton rather than 75,000-ton tankers. Critics say that these big ships are ill-equipped to deal with the hazards of the sea, pointing to recent tanker disasters.

Pomona plans movie parody

Pomona College will present "Bullshot Crummond" in Holmes Hall at 8 p.m. next Thursday through Saturday and at 2 p.m. Sunday. Tickets are $2.50 general and $1 for students.

The play is a parody of the Bulldog Drummond movie serial character created in the 1930s by Ronald Coleman. It will be directed by William Smith, assistant professor of theater arts, with costumes by Sherry George.

"Bullshot Crummond" parodies the later movies in the original series as well as the typical British hero of the day. The plot revolves around the kidnapping of Prof. Fenton, an absent-minded scientist who holds the secret for perfect synthetic diamonds, by the Teutonic villian Otto Von Bruno and his mistress Lenya. Bullshot and the professor's daughter Rosemary, however, foil their plot and triumph with typical British modesty.

Capt. Hugh "Bullshot" Crummond is played by Jefferson Eliot and Rosemary by Betsy Apley. Otto and his mistress are Ric Robertson and Dey Young. Michael Mareneck completes the cast, playing everyone from Prof. Fenton to Inspector Scabbard of Scotland Yard. The settings are a pastiche of the two-dimensional movie setts of the period. The production will use live sound effects and an original organ score by John Lick.

The play, which was created out of impovisation, is by Ron House, Diz White, Alan Shearman, John Neville-Andrews and Derek Cunningham.

Exhibit now at Pitzer

An exhibition of paintings by William Warne is being held through March 31 in the East Studio Gallery, McConnell Center, Pitzer College.

The exhibit, "Paintings from San Luis de Rio Colorado, Sonora, Mexico," is open to the public without charge from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. daily.

The monetary unit of Poland is a zloty. It is worth about three cents.

They beat prices by building a tepee

CRAWFORD COUNTY, Pa. (AP)—Bill and Maggie Seay couldn't afford a house and didn't want to pay rent, so they roughed it this winter in a $400 tepee.

They dusted snowflakes from their bed, burned three cords of wood to stay warm and used hot water bottles in insulated boxes to keep food from freezing.

But they also heard the winter's deepest silence and spring's early symphony.

"You can't hear those things in a house," said Seay, a 24year-old school teacher.

Their campsite is somewhere in the rolling farmland of northwestern Pennsylvania. They don't want to reveal its exact location for fear curious outsiders would interrupt their woodland solitude.

Indeed, they even found weather forecasts an unwanted intrusion.

"We finally had to turn the radio off," said Mrs. Seay. "We had more trouble dealing with the weather when we heard the reports."

This was Seay's second winter in a tepee; the first for his pregnant 22-year-old wife.

"It was a battle to come to terms with the cold," he admitted. "It's hard to imagine being warm when you can see your breath."

Now, he's comfortable in the 40-degree warmth of the tepee, but feels a chill in 60-degree homes where friends are trying to conserve natural gas.

"Sometimes I think we're better off than the people who depend on the gas company," he said. "We can always have more heat — if we're willing to get the wood."

Eventually, the Seays hope to buy land with their savings and build a cabin. But the tepee isn't a temporary hardship on the quick route to that goal.

"We love living here," he said, smoothing a fluffy beard. "I didn't want to get into renting. That's just like losing money. A tepee is immediate housing. There's no mortgage, and you can save.

"In a house you're isolated."

It's a simple life. Their home consists of 15 poles and a white canvas cover. Their belongings include the rugged oak table and the chair he made. They read by kerosene lamps.

"Everything we have is here," he said.

A foam pad and a pile of blankets serve for a bed. They wlk on second hand carpeting.

"We never have to worry about the plumbing freezing," Seay said. "We don't have a water bill."

Looking for work? Might try Nebraska

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you're looking for work, Nebraska might be a good place to start.

Kansas, Iowa, South Dakota and Wyoming offer promise, too.

The Labor Department said that those five states had the lowest unemployment rates in the nation in January.

Nebraska's was the lowest at 3.8 per cent of the work force. But it was below 5 per cent in the other four states.

In contrast, the Labor Department said unemployment ws over 10 per cent in California, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Michigan. Together, they accounted for 40 per cent of the nation's jobless, figures show.

WIDOWS ANONYMOUS

They help each other share pain, triumphs

ORANGE (AP) — For a woman who has spent much of her life wrapped in the warm cocoon of marriage, breaking out into the world of widowhood can be a cold shock. It can bring on, as one widow says, the "cuckoos."

The cuckoos creep up early in the morning, she said, when she awakens alone "climbing the walls." Or they come at a party, spurring a woman to act in a way that embarrasses her later. Or they make her just sit at home and brood about how she could have been a better wife.

"When you go through the cuckoos, you feel like you just can't endure life alone," said one widow.

So this "40ish" woman, who asked to remain unnamed, decided life would be more endurable if others in the same boat got together and shared their pain and triumphs.

The result was a nonprofit organization, Widows Anonymous.

"We know we've got to go on with life," she said. "We've just got to discover how."

The widows, aged from 23 to 87, get together at the small leased building in this Orange County community 40 miles south of Los Angeles, and they let their feelings hang out. "Sometimes if it's painful, we cuss," the executive director and board chairman said.

And the women try to find new activities to get them out of brooding and into laughing again. "We're not morbid," she said, noting the group plans trips to Las Vegas, television tapings, craft programs and shopping trips.

One of the worst aspects of widowhood, the woman said, is that "society treats widows shabbily. People think if they don't think about death, it will go away. But death is not particular where it strikes."

Another problem, she said, is that widows spend a lot of time brooding over what she calls the "I wish list."

The woman said the list includes: "I wish I had fixed his favorite food. I wish I had worked out the budget. It's a list as long as your arm. But you don't get any more chances. Death is final."

The group chairman said a lot of women get bent on self destruction because "they were not good wives and they feel guilty about it."

And dating to find a new man can be difficult, because "morals have changed. A lot of women have been in the cocoon of marriage for 25 to 30 years. Then they come out into a world of living-together morals. It can really be a jungle."

The woman said response to formation of the new group has been very strong, although widows' groups exist around the country.

But they all work on one thing, she said: curing the "disease" of loneliness.

"If only married women would realize the importance of marriage — if only they would work harder on their marriages while they've got them..."

Joyce Brothers
Adjusting to his pace

DEAR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS: I married a country boy two years ago and we live near my hometown, Chicago. I'm constantly amazed by the differences between us. We love each other but sometimes I get irritated because my husband takes twice as long as I'm used to to do anything. He says I'm nervous because I drink three cups of coffee every morning and noon, but that's not it. If we go for a walk or to the supermarket it seems to me he's dragging and it seems to him that I'm running. — S.K.

Dear S.K.: Everybody's pace and sense of timing is just a bit different. Since you're from an urban area, you probably are used to moving fast. People do walk faster in large cities, according to a study by a psychologist and an anthropologist.

They studied walking speeds in six countries, in cities large and small on a sunny day of moderate temperature. In big cities, such as New York, Prague and Munich, people moved almost twice as fast as those in the smallest cities studied.

Dr. Stanley Milgram of the City University of New York says crowding produces psychological tensions by overlooking the mental processing ability, and he feels this may be a reason city people walk faster. To reduce the tension they may try to move through a crowded street as quickly as possible.

Your husband is correct in thinking that coffee adds to your tension. The caffeine in coffee produces stress in almost everyone. If you consider the high prices you're now paying for those extra cups, you may add to your stress, but you may also decide it isn't worth the price.

DEAR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS: Three years ago, when I was 26, I quit working to have a baby. I love my little girl and have never, for one moment, regretted having her. Now, however, I'm suffering from guilt because I just started back at my old job. I'm proud to say I'm good at it. I hated putting my daughter in a preschool day care center, but I realized that if I didn't, I'd lose the job opportunity and I would go crazy if I couldn't fulfill myself outside the home. If I'm causing my daughter emotional problems, however, I'd like to know it. If not, I'd like to know too, so I can continue to enjoy my job and my life. — W.N.

Dear W.N.: If the day care center is a good one, I think you can relax and take pleasure in your work so when you're with your daughter you can give her the most of a happy, refreshed self. She'll be quick to sense your anxiety and guilt if you bring these feelings with you when you pick her up in the evenings.

Jerome Kagan, a Harvard psychologist, recently conducted a five-year experiment. He found that day care had no notable effect on a child's social behavior, language, or even attachment to the mother. All the children turned to the mother rather than the day care instructor when they wanted affection.

Dr. Kagan believes the mother's role is actually strengthened because she, more than the day care instructor, is emotionally involved in the child's development. Try to give your child the best of yourself and see that you have some time with her each day. It's really the quality of time not the quantity that counts.

Try scents

That new scent may smell terrific in the store, but before buying a bottle, it's best to wait 24 hours to make sure the undertones are equally pleasing.

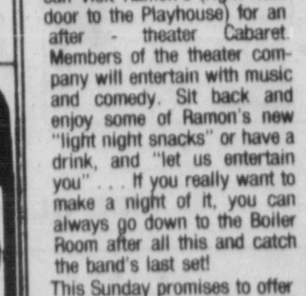
GOSH Chalk Talk from Griswold's Old Schoolhouse



Better get a room at the Inn this weekend — there are some FUN things coming up and you won't want to miss any of the action! You can spend a terrifically entertaining day or weekend at Griswold's and never have to leave the grounds or repark your car!

All the excitement and glamour of Broadway come to Griswold's this Fri. nite, March 18 — the hilarious comedy "Charley's Aunt" opens in the Claremont Playhouse; it will run through April 23. Opening night should be really gala — it features free champagne and soft drinks to fete the occasion in style! Curtain time is 8 pm Thurs., Fri. and Sat. and a new feature has been added that will be fun for family outings — Sun. matinee at 3:00. Reservations, ticket info and group rates available by calling (714) 621-5005.

And for more fun and excitement — after Fri. and Sat. evening performances, you can visit Ramon's (right next door to the Playhouse) for an after - theater Cabaret. Members of the theater company will entertain with music and comedy. Sit back and enjoy some of Ramon's new "light night snacks" or have a drink, and "let us entertain you" . . . If you really want to make a night of it, you can always go down to the Boiler Room after all this and catch the band's last set!

This Sunday promises to offer something very unique and lovely — the Singing Strings, a 55-piece mandolin orchestra from San Diego, will play in concert IN the Pavilion, so we'll be able to catch every beautiful note. Members of this group range in age from teenagers to 80 year olds; their repertoire ranges from light classics to show tunes. They'll appear Sun., 1:30-4:30, in the GOSH PAVILION — come see this free concert for a really classic experience!

Betty

P.S. If you like the hint of cilantro with your corned beef and cabbage, have it dished up for you at Ramon's Thursday, for a truly different St. Patty's day! Green beer, too!

When a watch is advertised, the number of jewels it has in its movement is often mentioned as an indication of its quality.

Jewels are used mentioned as an indication of its quality.

Jewels are used inside watches to make them run better. A watch has many wheels and other moving parts that create friction.

In the best watches tiny pieces of finely ground jewels are placed at the ends of pivots which are constantly moving. They provide a smoother surface than metal, and reduce friction between the moving parts.

Sapphire and ruby are usually used for jeweled bearings because they are very hard and smooth, and do not corrode.

At one time these were genuine jewels, but they are now mostly synthetic (man-made) jewels.

A watch may have from 7 to 23 jewels in the movement. The value of a watch may be based on the number of jewels it has.

New band booked

Stratus, a newly formed rock group based in Pomona, will perform at Gizzarri's on the Sunset Strip in Hollywood Friday and Saturday nights.

The members are Rod Curtis of Pomona, bass and lead vocalist; Craig Herring of Pomona, guitarist; Bob Siler, Norwalk, drummer and vocalist, and Bruce Watkins, Pomona, guitarist and vocalist.

The group has been playing together for six months, but all have had wide experience in other bands, and Siler is a professional drummmer. All are students at Mt. San Antonio College. They have played at MSAC and at numerous local schools. The group performed at Walter Mitty's earlier this month.

Stratus specializes in what Watkins calls "quality rock," but the group combines a number of different musical influences and styles to create its own unique sound.

Our stage director, Genevieve McDowell, is very talented and imaginative. She trained with Frank Corsaro, stage director of the New York City Opera, and is eminently qualified. And of course our orchestra director, Donald Ambroson, is tops."

State earning $200 million on investments

SACRAMENTO (BW) — Jesse M. Unruh, California State Treasurer, Tuesday predicted that the State, for the fourth consecutive year, will earn more than $200 million on the short-term investment of funds flowing through its nine bank accounts.

He said the State's interest earnings for the current fiscal year were above target for the first six months, ended Dec. 31, at more than $144 million.

For last fiscal year ended June 30, the State's investment earnings were $219 million.

Striking as this figure is in itself, it is even more welcome to State officials and taxpayers when compared with earnings of about half that amount four years ago.

Unruh said that the introduction of advanced computer methods contributed significantly to the State's ability to find over $200 million every year through tighter cash management discipline.

The new methods center on a problem familiar to most adults: reconciling a bank balance. It's complicated by the fact that State agencies make deposits in more than 500 banks for credit to Treasury checking accounts maintained in Sacramento branches of nine large commercial banks.

Every day, banks throughout the State cash anywhere from 25,000 to 200,000 checks issued by State agencies. This adds up to a daily average cash flow of $500-600 million through these accounts.

The Treasurer's Office cannot invest much of this cash unless it knows exactly what the current balances are. To be useful in the investment program, the balances must be known by 4 p.m.

Unruh has called the process "a daily race against the clock."

Before introducing the new computer methods, the Treasurer's Office was able to meet its afternoon balancing deadline an average of only one or two days a month. Within four months after switching from punched cards to all-electronic computer-aided methods, the average jumped dramatically to 12 days a month.

The new methods are known technically as a "mixed media data entry system." The documents are computerized by a Burroughs Corp. magnetic ink character recognition (MICR) system that very rapidly "reads" the information encoded on checks and warrants. For a variety of reasons, the MICR reader cannot read every document. Every day it rejects some 8,000 unreadable checks and warrants.

Yet, these documents must also be processed before all the accounts can be balanced.

To handle rejects, the Treasurer's Office installed a CMC-6 KeyProcessing (R) System built by a CMC division of Pertec Computer Corp. A built-in minicomputer is "dedicated" to speeding up the data entry operations and making them more accurate. The CMC-6 System also balances the batches of checks and warrants it processes.

These and other streamlining techniques have helped the Treasurer's Office meet its account-reconciling deadline about 10 times as often as it did before under the punched card system.

The number of satellites and pieces of debris from fragmented rocket bodies is up from the 1975 record of 929 objects.

LOSE FAT
MODEL-ETTS HELPS CURB YOUR APPETITE HELPS YOU LOSE THAT EXTRA WEIGHT • NO CALORIE COUNTING! • NO EXERCISES! • NO SPECIAL DIETS!

Thanks to a group of New York doctors, you can now lose pounds of ugly fat without going on any special diet, without cutting out any special foods.

HELPS REDUCE HUNGRY MOMENTS
These New York doctors discovered a food adjuvant called "MODEL-ETTS." "Model-etts" does remarkable things. It helps you cut down your caloric intake by a natural automatic curbing of the appetite and of the desire for foods, resulting automatically in a reduced intake of food.

The doctors carefully checked results, and here is what they found: 1. Weight losses of 6 to 20 pounds without any ill effects whatsoever. 2. 96% of the men and women who used "Model-etts" lost weight. "Model-etts" is absolutely safe. It is a food adjuvant—not a drug. So, start today to shed those unwanted pounds and inches. If your condition is glandular or organic, see your doctor. "Model-etts" may help you stay on the diet your doctor recommends. Ask him about it.

One "Model-etts" Wafer has the hunger satisfying capacity of 1 lb. boiled potatoes or 4 eggs or 5 slices of white bread, yet it contains only 6 calories.
